Laird Probably Will Support Tax Boost

'Administrative Irresponsibility' Forces Hike, GOP Leader Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep Melvin R. Laird, chairman of the House Republican Conference, said today that while he didn't like the idea, he probably will have to support a sizable tax hike this year.

Rep. Gerald R. Ford, the House Republican leader, previously opposed a tax increase, favoring instead a reduction in spending.

Laird, of Wisconsin, said in an interview the tax hike probably will be needed "in light of the Johnson administration's failure to be responsible in the field of fiscal management."

President Johnson has requested a 6 per cent surtax to take effect July 1, but he has not submitted the specific legislation he desires

Byrnes Dissent

Rep John W Byrnes of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the Ways and Means Committee, wrote the dissent signed by all 10 GOP Ways and Means Committee members to a recent bill increasing the debt limit by $29 billion The House killed the bill

Byrnes and the other GOP committee members said an increase in taxes must be considered a step toward reducing both the deficit and the need for an additional $29 billion in borrowing authority.

Laird said there are three possible courses of action in the face of a deficit of more than $25 billion—reduction in non-defense spending, an increase in taxes, or deficit financing.

A reduction in non-defense spending, Laird said, is the preferred course He said many worthwhile programs could be postponed or cut back and others such as the moon shot could be stretched out

Logic Rejected

"Unfortunately, however," Laird said, "President Johnson and his Democratic majorities in both houses of the Congress have refused to accept the logic of this approach to our growing economic problems.

"On the contrary, the House of Representatives has already voted for appropriations of $126.8 billion since Congress convened in January. If this trend continues, and there is little likelihood it will not, Congress will have appropriated more than $163 billion before the session comes to a close."

Consequently, Laird said, Congress will have no choice but to enact a sizable tax increase in order to reduce the impact of a massive deficit that could go well over $25 billion

He said a responsible Congress should not tolerate such a massive deficit because it would have a staggering adverse impact on the economy

Censure Decision Pending

Dodd Seems Short Of Acquittal Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is expected to pass judgment this week on Sen Thomas J Dodd, accused of financial misconduct. Dodd's chief defender says he is short of the votes need to block censure

The vote on the censure resolution proposed by the Senate ethics committee is expected Tuesday or Wednesday.

Two Charges

Sen Russell B. Long, D-La., said in New Orleans Saturday he was gaining votes but was far short of the majority needed to defeat the resolution.

Long declined to say how many of the potential 100 votes are lined up for Dodd.

Long was to resume today his speech in defense of Dodd, 60, accused of converting $116,083 in political funds to his own use and knowingly double-billing the Senate and private organizations for travel expenses on seven trips

The Senate will vote separately on the two counts.

Dodd spent the weekend preparing his final plea He contends he has never profited from holding public office.

The possibility of a filibuster had loomed as the Senate concluded the first week of debate when Long called for a vote Friday on the double-billing charge. This was blocked by Sen Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, vice chairman of the ethics committee

Possible Filibuster

Bennett said there was some feeling that if the double-billing count should be voted down, a filibuster might be mounted against bringing the other count to a vote. It is regarded as the more serious

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said the ethics committee, after spending 14 months investigating Dodd, was entitled to decide which count should be voted on first.

"After all," he said, "it is not just Sen Dodd who is on trial The committee is on trial, too."

Dirksen said that when the investigation began there was "a lot of cynical comment around the country about a whitewash"

Regardless of the outcome, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield believes the Senate must enact a code of ethics this year

Blueprints Hurriedly Drawn, Device Put Together Bit by Bit

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's armed forces newspaper says China's first hydrogen bomb was exploded one month early as a gift to Chairman Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution.

"Some of the officials concerned were gripped by anxiety and unable to tackle difficulties involved in the test" and warned against "undue haste," the Liberation Army Daily said.

But "the revolutionaries, rereading quotations of Communist Chinese party Chairman Mao Tse-tung decided to test the bomb early and make it a gift to the cultural revolution," it said.

"Thus they worked day and night and finally succeeded in drawing up the blueprint a month earlier than scheduled. They put the blueprint into shape fragmentarily without waiting for the completion of the whole parts."

Soviets Silent

The announcement of the Chinese blast Saturday drew no comment from the Soviet Union and was given only one paragraph in Moscow Sunday papers.

Defense Department officials in Washington said the test has not changed the Pentagon's belief that China will not be able to launch a nuclear attack on the United States for about eight years.

Japanese military experts, however, say the Chinese appear to have a number of bombs ready for testing and in transportable form. The blast was interpreted by some Japanese commentators as an implied threat to Japan, which has no diplomatic relations with Red China

Nuclear debris from the Chinese test was expected to begin falling on Japan today. Two daily flights of planes are to collect fallout dust in western Japan

The blast was expected to strengthen Mao's hand in his campaign to oust President Liu Shao-chi and his supporters. The Peking communique announcing the explosion said it "greatly heightens the morale of the revolutionary people, and greatly deflates the arrogance of imperialism, modern revisionism and all reactionaries."

Anti-Christian Attackers Kill Filipino Catholics

MANILA (AP) — Seven members of an independent Philippine Catholic sect were killed today by a band of 200 anti-Christian fanatics who attacked their headquarters in the central Philippine village of Nuevavista, the Philippine Constabulary reported

A spokesman said the anti-Christian band fled after the battle and were being hunted by troops

The spokesman said the dead were members of the "National Catholic Church" Earlier the constabulary reported that the fanatics, "armed with assorted firearms, explosives, machetes and spears," had burned down several houses near Nevavista.

Enmity between the two groups was given as the cause of the flareup

Premier's First Look at New York City

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin sightsees along Wall Street Sunday with his daughter Mrs. Ludmila Gvishiani. Also beside him is Soviet Ambassador to the United States Anatole Dobrynin. The columned building on the right is the U.S. Sub-Treasury In the background is Trinity Church. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin took in the typical tourist sights of Manhattan Sunday, but left his limousine only twice to take a walk — along Wall Street and a Fifth Avenue area of expensive shops.

Following his 2½-hour, 36-mile trip, Kosygin summed it up through an interpreter as "wonderful."

With Kosygin in the air-conditioned car equipped with bullet-proof glass were his daughter, Ludmila Gvishiani, Soviet Ambassador to the United States Anatoly F. Dobrynin, and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

They were surrounded by police security guards. Newsmen were kept at least 50 feet from the party.

Range of Sites

Among the sights shown Kosygin were Central Park, Greenwich Village, Chinatown, the Empire State Building, Harlem, the Bowery, the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Brooklyn Bridge, Union Square, Trinity Church, Grand Central Terminal, and the East Village, the hippie hangout.

The seven-car motorcade, flanked by motorcycle policemen, began and ended the tour at the Soviet U.N. Mission on East 67th Street. Sunday traffic is usually light in Manhattan, and overcast skies also cut down on the number of strollers and sightseers

Kosygin became the first Soviet premier to set foot in the Wall Street financial district Nikita Khrushchev was driven along the street in 1959, but stayed in his car.

Kosygin's four-block walk took him past the New York Stock Exchange and some major firms representing the upper echelons of American economic power.

On Fifth Avenue the premier walked from 38th Street to 23rd Street.

The few passersby showed only mild curiosity. One man said of Kosygin, who was wearing a dark gray suit and dark blue and black striped tie: "If he didn't have all those people around him, I'd think he was a businessman."

On the Bowery, a drunk staggered out of a doorway, where he had been sleeping, and headed for the cars, but police waved him off.

On the West Side Highway a taxicab driver blew his horn as the premier's car went by. "It's a good way to show him how democracy works," said the cabbie.

Crime Commission Report

Public Schools Blamed In Delinquency Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — A presidential crime commission report says public schools contribute to growing juvenile delinquency.

The commission's task force on juvenile delinquency said teachers often fail to concentrate on slow learners, prejudge the learning abilities of slum children and make life so uncomfortable for troublemakers they want to drop out.

The school is a central strategic place in the lives of children and so has the potential to help offset the pressures toward delinquency "but this potential is not now being realized," the task force said.

The report urged the schools to cut the number of high school dropouts, help more children prepare for college and other training beyond high school and help arm with adequate skills those who go to work right after high school graduation so they can hold white-collar or blue-collar jobs

The report, released Saturday, also criticized juvenile courts Nicholas Katzenbach, crime commission chairman and a former attorney general, said they have failed to live up to the hopes of those who established them.

Most youths who become delinquent, the report said, do so because they don't have a commitment to conventional middle-class adult roles or community standards of behavior. It said the schools may directly contribute to this lack of commitment or "at least may not capitalize on the chance to foster a commitment to the legitimate system when it is lacking."

Play Hand Well if It Is Stolen

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When you marry a girl you promise to love, cherish and support, but you don't undertake to let her play many bridge hands. There is a limit to everything. Still, if you steal a hand from her, don't muff the play of the cards or you'll never hear the end of it.

When today's hand was played in a household match, declarer ruffed the opening club lead in dummy and drew three rounds of trumps. That was three years ago, and he still hears about this hand now and then.

Opening lead — ♣ K

South switched to diamonds when the trumps failed to break, but West ruffed the third diamond and cashed a club to defeat the slam.

Simple Play

The correct line of play, as the wife in the case has pointed out many times, was simplicity itself. After ruffing the first club in dummy South leads to the king of spades and ruffs the other club. He cashes the queen of hearts and gets to his hand with a diamond to draw two more rounds of trumps.

When the trumps fail to break South plays the diamonds until West ruffs. Then, since South is out of clubs, he can easily win the rest.

I would like to support a fellow husband in distress, but I must concede that South got only what was coming to him. At rubber bridge South should bid six diamonds and let his partner play the hand.

North would draw two rounds of diamonds, cash the top spades and give up a spade. Then she would ruff her last spade in the South hand and claim the rest of the tricks.

A shrewd husband must know when to yield if he wants to live a peaceful life.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold: S-10 7, H-J 10 8 3, D- 5 2, C-K Q J 6 3. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one heart. The hand is not strong enough for a response of two clubs, but you can afford to show your hearts at the level of one.

Your Problems

Psyche-Delicatessen Offers Legal Aids for Illegal Trips

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been reading you for years and I thought I had heard everything, but I ran across a news item in the paper today that is more fantastic than anything I have ever read in your column.

Here in Santa Barbara a new

place of business has opened. It is called The Psychedelic Shop. They sell accessories for smoking marijuana, pot pipes, "roach" (cigarette papers) and toys to amuse people while on LSD trips. They also offer paintings, jewelry and drawings by young artists and far-out phallic sculpture.

The police chief insists he cannot close the shop because there is no law against it. He also said, "We can't shut down a place of business just because some people don't like it."

As a courageous crusader who has always upheld high moral standards, will you please say something about authorities who hide behind the law to permit such an establishment to operate? — Santa Barbara Citizen

Dear Santa: I can't see that anybody is hiding behind anything. The police chief stated that he is unable to make an arrest because no law has been broken. If the shop sold marijuana or LSD the chief could and would padlock it at once, but selling accessories is not against the law.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Here is a belated thank you. Three years ago my wife sent for your booklet on alcoholism. She was no drinker but I was. That booklet lay on the dresser for three months and finally one night I decided to read it even though I was not ready to admit I had a drinking problem.

Reading your booklet was the first step toward ending a living hell. I recognized myself in those pages and finally had to admit I was an alcoholic. Here are a few things I don't have to worry about anymore:

(1) My wife leaving me.

(2) Excuses for being away from work.

(3) Excuses for being too "sick" to go places.

(4) What to say to bill collectors when they come to the house and I can't pay because I am broke.

(5) Where did I leave the car last night?

(6) How did I get home?

(7) Did I say anything in front of the kids that I ought to be ashamed of?

I could go on for pages, but I think you have the idea. Your booklet made me go to Alcoholics Anonymous, and there I found the help I needed. I know now the only difference between a drunk in a penthouse and a drunk in the gutter is the height that separates them. — Thankful

Dear Thankful: So am I. I appreciate your letter more than I can say.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In a recent column you told a wife whose husband was interested in wife swapping — "sure, people get curious, and sometimes it doesn't take them 20 years, but curiosity is no excuse for behaving like animals."

On behalf of such animals as lions, Canadian geese, otters, cardinals and almost any type except cowbirds, I object. They wouldn't dream of such behavior!

I was sure you knew better. — Toronto Editor

Dear Editor: My apologies to the lions, Canadian geese, otters, cardinals and all others whom I offended by lumping them with humans. You are right. I should have known better.

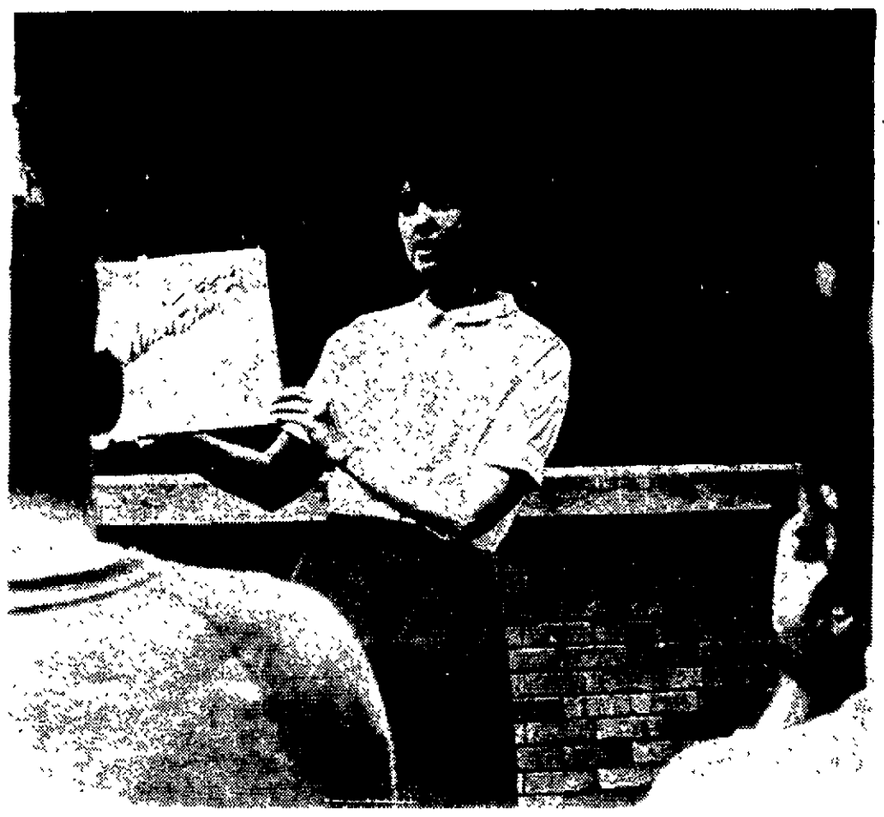
Playground Leaders Prepare

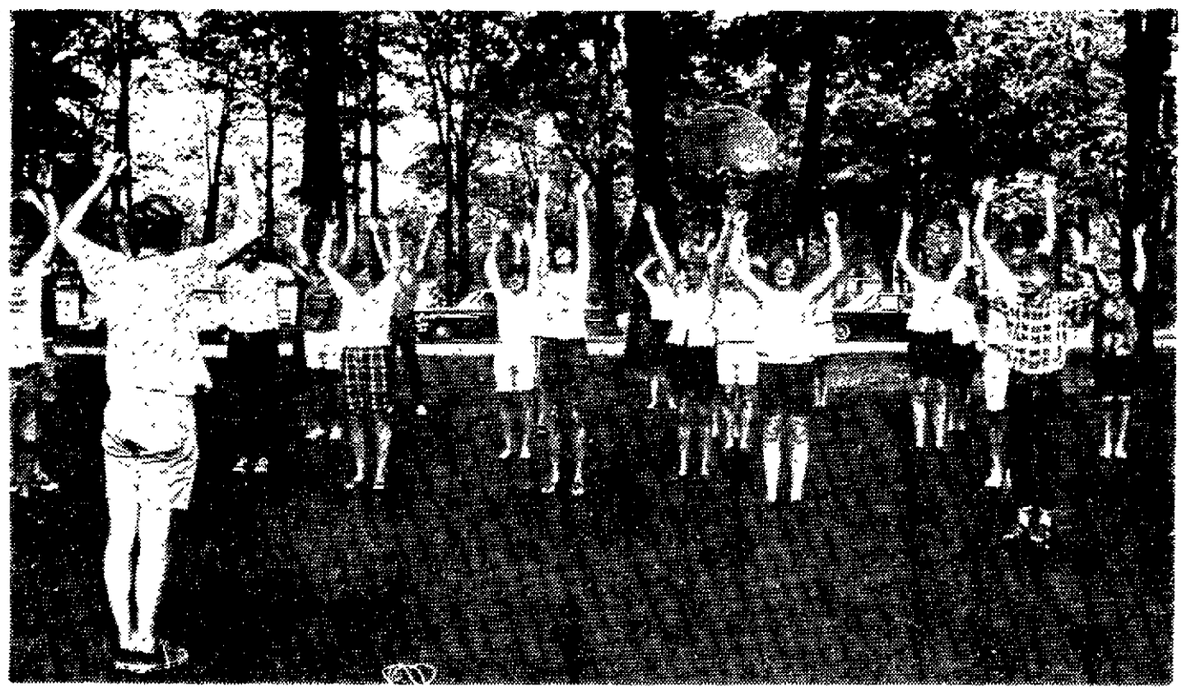
While Appleton youngsters were enjoying their first week of vacation and waiting for playgrounds to open all around the city, leaders of those playgrounds were already on the job. Their first week was spent in work sessions designed to help them have better programs and safer playgrounds.

Meeting each morning and afternoon, the leaders of 15 playgrounds heard speakers discuss such problems as first aid, difficult or unreachable children and maintaining the daily interest of youngsters. Returning leaders discussed methods and skills they've found useful.

The playgrounds opened at 9 a.m. today and will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., except Fridays, when they will close at noon.



How to Maintain the interest of younger children in a story was demonstrated by Kathie Pierre during the Friday morning 'average' day on the playground. Leaders went through most of the activities that will be carried out during the playground year.



Learning to be Proficient in kickball while barefooted obviously calls for some special knowhow—such as crossing the fingers. Above, during the Friday session for playground leaders, is Kitty Schultz. At right, Bruce Cain leads the group in physical fitness exercises. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Three Blocks to Go On Avenue Paving

Begin Laying Last Three Sections From Oneida, East to Drew Street

The last phase of laying new concrete on College Avenue, from Oneida to Drew Street, will be done on a block-by-block basis starting this week, Public Works Director Frank Keuler reported today.

Paving has been completed in the long stretch from Memorial Drive to Oneida Street, and concrete is curing.

Begin Streetscaping

Streetscaping, along with installation of decorative sidewalks, will begin in about a week.

And crews of the Superior Electric Co., Appleton, are laying underground conduits from Morrison to Durkee streets, in addition to making preparations for installing new traffic light signals at intersections along the College Avenue business district route.

New light standards purchased especially for the avenue, will be shipped out of Newark, N.J. this week. Other fixtures already have arrived, including new lighting accessories.

The new lighting system will start going up in the near future, Keuler said.

Open Intersections

In the meantime, Superior, State and Walnut Street intersections have been opened to vehicular traffic across College Avenue to aid crosstown traffic.

Because of continuing construction activity, no traffic will be permitted on College Avenue, and officials said they do not contemplate opening additional intersections in the immediate future.

The avenue project, although slowed down by rain last week, still is ahead of schedule.

Police Rescue Nurse From Mental Patient

Menasha Man Goes 'Wild' After Drinking On Weekend Pass

Two Appleton police patrolmen late last night saved a nurse from probable serious injury by a 40-year-old mental patient who was holding a chunk of glass to her throat.

The patrolmen were dispatched to St. Elizabeth Hospital about 11:15 p.m. Sunday when hospital officials called for help with a patient who was "going wild" on the fourth floor section, which is used to quarter mental patients.

Holds Nurse

When the two policemen stepped from the elevator, they saw the man holding Mrs. Charles Paul from behind. He held a chunk of jagged glass to her throat. Police said the glass was covered with blood.

While one of the patrolmen talked to the man, the other slowly moved closer and finally grabbed the man by the arm. The second patrolman grabbed the other arm and Mrs. Paul broke loose. Police then pinned the man's arms behind him and took him into a room. The man, whom police said is from Menasha, had suffered a deep cut on his right hand.

Transfer Patient

Several other policemen later arrived at the hospital. The man continued to be unmanageable and hospital personnel were unable to strap him into bed. Police finally put him in restraining straps and took him to Winnebago State Hospital about 12:45 a.m.

Mrs. Paul, who was not injured, is the wife of the assistant administrator at St. Elizabeth Hospital. She lives at 1216 W. Lorain St.

Police were told that the man had been a patient at the hospital about three weeks and had been released on a weekend pass.

He reportedly had been drinking heavily and Sunday night was taken back to the hospital where he became abusive with the nurses. The man also threw articles, including flower pots, near the fourth floor nurses' station. Police said the glass he held in his hand came from a broken flower container.

Charles Roberts, 21, 1121 N. Drew St., this morning was arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on a charge of taking indecent liberties with a 10-year-old Appleton girl.

Judge Gustave J. Keller set preliminary hearing for June 27 and ordered bond of $2,500. Roberts is in jail in lieu of posting bond.

The charge was brought following investigation by Appleton and Outagamie County authorities who allege the offense occurred Saturday in the Town of Grand Chute.

Adrienne Kulieke, Miss Appleton, is greeted by Miss Wsconsin, Candy Hinz, as she registers for the 1967 Miss Wisconsin competition in Oshkosh. Contestants gathered in Oshkosh Sunday and the new queen will be crowned, after week-long competition, in ceremonies Saturday night.

Competition Begun For Miss Wisconsin

Parade Featuring Candidates, U.S. Marine Band Sets Pace

OSHKOSH (AP)—Thirty-eight finalists have gathered here for a whirlwind week of activity, which will be climaxed Saturday night, when one of them is crowned Miss Wisconsin.

The girls, who won local pageants in all areas of the state, arrived here Sunday and will stay at Oshkosh State University dormitories while taking part in competition and pageant ceremonies.

A parade will be held tonight after a dinner sponsored by the Oshkosh Merchants Association.

Preliminary competition will be extended over four nights. The current Miss Wisconsin, Candace Hinz of West Allis, will place the crown on the head of the winner.

The two-hour parade will begin at 9 p.m. at Otter and Main streets and travel west to New York Avenue.

Divided into nine sections, each of which will be led by a band, the parade pace will be set by the United States Marine Band, followed by the Miss Wisconsin float displaying Miss Hinz, the 1964 Miss America float with Donna Axum, and other state queen floats. The Miss Appleton float is in the first section.

The second parade section, led by the Oshkosh Warriors, a YMCA group, features Miss Fond du Lac.

Floats in Parade

Other area bands and floats include fourth section, led by Bells of St. Mary's, from St. Mary High School, Menasha; fifth section with Miss New Holstein's car led by the Crusaders from Milwaukee; seventh section, Miss Shawano's car, preceded by the Maria High School band from Stevens Point, and eighth section, the Marquis, Fond du Lac High School band, marking of rhythm for Miss Two Rivers.

The Friendship Riders, an equestrian parade group from Oshkosh, will signify the end of the parade.

Beginning at 8:45 a.m. today the candidates had their press pictures taken in bathing suits at the Pioneer Inn pool. From 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. the girls split into three groups to take part in general rehearsals of talents, poise and posture, such as standing, turning and walking.

The girls will remain assigned to an A, B or C group all week, so that rehearsal activities can be staggered. Appleton, Fond du Lac and New Holstein candidates are in Group A and Miss Oshkosh in Group B.

The Milwaukee woman told county police she was northbound on 41 when her car went onto the gravel and out of control. She was not hospitalized.

Municipal Sales Levy

Assembly Seeks Local Tax Bill for School Aid

MADISON (AP) — Municipalities in financial crisis could levy a local sales tax of up to one per cent under a bill introduced Friday in the Assembly.

Assembly speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, said the measure he sponsored was "an alternate to direct school aids."

Democrats Battled

Democrats have battled to pass a bill increasing state assistance to schools by $30 million spread over two years. Republicans have resisted because they argue state taxes would have to be hiked to meet the increase.

Froehlich's bill got a 7-3 authorization for introduction Friday by the Assembly Rules Committee. The three dissenters were the committee's Democratic members.

Ease Taxes

Localities now have to rely almost entirely for revenue on the property tax.

The bill would offer a new option allowing a municipality to adopt the retail sales tax for educational expenditures only on items already included under the present three per cent state sales levy.

The rates allowed under terms of the bill would be either one-half of one per cent or one per cent. The tax would be collected by the state and returned to the municipalities.

Vocational District to be Formed

Board Candidates to be Reviewed

A list of men to be considered for nomination to the new area Board of Vocational, Technical, and Adult Education District 12 is ready for review today by the six-man committee.

"We have more than 20 candidates for the six-member board," Charles Buchanan, general chairman of the 25 school board presidents whose districts make up the new District 12, said today.

"I have elected that tonight's meeting will be privileged, since it is a personnel matter, and no information will be released until the general meeting of the 25 school board presidents at 8 p.m. Thursday at Einstein Junior High School. They will ratify our nominations at that time."

Milan Ratsch, Shiocton; James Siebers, Kimberly; Frank X. Hochholzer, Neenah; Steve Hitchcok, Oshkosh; Ray Fisher, Brillion, and Eugene Fuhrmann, New London, will meet with Buchanan tonight to screen the candidates.

Two employers, two employes and two members-at-large will be named to the new area board Thursday and their names will be submitted to the State Vocational Board, Madison, on or before June 26.

The new board is scheduled to take over District 12 July 1. After choosing a superintendent from one of the 25 school districts to serve as an ex-officio member of the area board, the new board will be in charge of all District 12 affairs, including the operation of the six existing vocational, technical and adult schools.

371 Citizens Petition for Hoover Park as School Site

New 9th Ward Signers Disagree With 350 Residents Who Earlier Indicated Choice of Mielke Land

Use of Hoover Park as the site for the proposed new southeast grade school, and development of a new park on the more spacious Roeland property, was urged today during a meeting of the plan commission.

Thomas Heiss, 212 E. Harding St., presented a petition with signatures of 371 Ninth Ward residents who said they favored the Hoover site.

It presently is used for two baseball diamonds and has a total of 11 acres tableland.

The city recently purchased 40 acres of Roeland property for expressway, school and park-site purposes — and the land acquisition committee has suggested 22 acres be used for a new southside park.

However, the board of education has recommended the Mielke Trust property in the same area should be purchased and be the new school site.

Need Utilities

Heiss told the commission he and others objected to the school board's Mielke site because of the extensive amount of sewer and water utilities which would have to be installed and connected.

He claimed at one time the school board had included in its option on the Mielke property a stipulation which would have resulted in the city having to pay for the cost of the land, plus all of the underground and street improvements.

In addition to the suggested school site, Mielke has several acres of nearby undeveloped property which eventually could be platted into a subdivision.

Heiss said it would be in the best interest of the people on the southside to have the school built at Hoover Park and to put a park on the Roeland property.

"My sole interest is to see what we are going to get for our tax dollars," Heiss declared. He claimed there would be no problem in locating a school on the Hoover land.

A board of education spokesman said last week if the Hoover site was offered, it would be given consideration as an alternative to the Miele property, which is its No. 1 choice.

Heiss said the school board's argument that it picked the Mielke site because of its population center location "doesn't hold water."

Was Shortage

At one point, Arthur Jones, park-recreation commission president, said Hoover Park came into existence a few years ago when the city had a serious shortage of ball diamonds. He

A special meeting of the park-recreation commission Saturday morning resulted in a split on whether Hoover Park should be traded for a larger area for park development purposes.

Three members favored the proposal while three others voted against it because they felt a new school should be built on Mielke Trust property the board of education wants to acquire.

The commission had been requested for a recommendation regarding park-recreation purposes only, but apparently got involved in the school site discussion.

Six Injured in Five Accidents In Appleton

Brothers Hurt In Motorcycle-Car Mishap Sunday

Four accidents Sunday and one late Saturday night in Appleton resulted in injuries to six persons, including two young brothers hurt in a motorcycle-car accident.

James, 18, and Kevin Spaay, 14, both of 1716 W. Lorain St., were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital after the motorcycle James was operating collided with a car driven by George R. Davis, 31, 531 N. Bateman St., about 12:25 a.m. Sunday at Atlantic and Richmond Streets.

Police said that James suffered leg injuries while his brother had severe head injuries, including a deep laceration, and arm and leg cuts. Details of the accident are being investigated. The boys were still in the hospital today.

Suffers Head Cuts

John Taege, 91, 2002 N. Harriman St., suffered head cuts about 4:50 p.m. Sunday when he was struck by a car that was backing out of a driveway at 1906 N. Harriman Street.

Police said the car was driven by Thomas L. Thompson, 35, of that address. Taege was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by the fire department rescue squad.

Police said Thompson was backing out of the driveway and Taege was walking north on the sidewalk.

Mark Jacobs, 6, 824 E. Harding St., suffered a bump on the head when the car he was in was involved in an accident about 12:20 p.m. Sunday at Badger Avenue and Spencer Street.

Planners Defer Making Oneida 2-Way Street

Request Scheduled For Joint Meeting With Street Unit

Possible far-reaching ramifications with regard to business district traffic flow caused the Plan Commission to take no action today on a request to make Oneida and Pacific two-way streets.

The request was submitted recently by the Garvey Agency, which says it has options on property for a client interested in constructing a retail establishment with 30,000 square feet, plus provide adjacent parking.

The site is bounded by Appleton, Pacific and Oneida Streets and railroad tracks. Oneida now is one-way north from Lawrence to Pacific streets while Pacific is one-way west for a short distance.

Richard Garvey, representing the agency, said the possibility should not be ruled out that the site would make a suitable location for a new post office. He was told it is too small.

Problems Would Result

City Planner-Traffic Engineer Walter Rasmussen said Garvey's request to revise the street plan would result in some problems, and did not fall in line with the city's comprehensive plan.

"If the street plan were changed, it could result in more tax base being removed from the rolls than would be added," Rasmussen commented.

But he felt, as did commission members, the matter should be reviewed at a joint meeting

Residents Against Assessments to Resurface Street

Costs of resurfacing Appleton streets should be borne by the city's general fund — not paid through special assessments, according to Thomas Glomstead, 1324 W. Second St.

In a letter to the city council today, Glomstead said it was "in bad taste" for the city to assess property owners in whole or in part without their consent.

Eighteen Second Street residents signed Glomstead's protest against resurfacing W. Second Street from Mason Street to the railroad tracks.

Glomstead also objected in 1966 when the project was originally scheduled.

Rescue Squad Takes Man, 44, to Hospital

William Pynch, 44, 725 E. Greenfield St., was taken to Appleton Memorial Hospital by the Appleton Fire Department rescue squad after he experienced difficulty breathing at his home about 6:20 p.m. Sunday.

Cigar Firm Owner Dies in Appleton After Brief Illness

The last of Appleton's hand-rolled cigar makers died Sunday after a brief illness.

Erwin C. Schmidt, 74, 139 N. State St., had been a lifelong resident of Appleton. He was a cigar maker and the owner of the William Hooper Cigar Co.

Schmidt is survived by his wife, one daughter, two sons, two brothers and 13 grandchildren. Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Wichmann Funeral Home.

Burial will be in Highland Memorial Park. Friends may call at the funeral home after 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Meeting Set On University Site Selection

A special joint meeting of the Outagamie County Board, the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce board of directors and the Committee of "100" has been set for 7:30 p.m. today in the county board room at the courthouse.

The Committee of "100" was originally formed to negotiate for the location of the northeast University of Wisconsin site in the Fox Cities area.

Purpose of the meeting is to bring members up to date on legislative action in Madison regarding the location of the site and to solicit suggestions and comments from those present.

Those expected to attend and comment are Assemblyman Harold Froehlich, Corporation Counsel A. W. Ponath, County Board chairman Sylvester Esler and Gerhard K. Willecke, chairman of the Fox Cities Joint Education Committee.

Interstate System

FVRPC to Review Cecil Street

NEENAH - MENASHA — U.S. 41, its future as part of the interstate system and the resulting effects on the Twin City area will come under close scrutiny by members of the technical advisory of the Fox Valley Regional Planning Commission this Thursday.

The first item on the agenda is a discussion of the Cecil Street interchange and frontage roads on both sides of the highway, between Cecil and Winneconne, as proposed by Wayne Bryan, Neenah public works director.

Bryan has asked for a revised layout of the interchange plans, prepared by the state highway department. He received support from Town of Neenah officials last Wednesday in his bid for access roads with off and on ramps at Winneconne for southbound traffic and off and on ramps at Cecil for northbound traffic.

The FVRPC has also prepared plans to close off roads in the Town of Neenah in the event of a limited-access interstate highway. The master road layout in the town will be presented at the meeting.

A third item concerning U S. 41 will be detailed by the state highway department. A revised plan for the northbound ramp onto U.S. 41 from County Trunk BB will be unveiled.

The initial specifications and perspectives on the area-wide, long-range sewer and water plan will be introduced. In order to be eligible for federal grants for sewer and water expansions, a comprehensive regional plan must be drawn up and communities will have to join the group by July 1, 1968.

Amnesia Victim Found by Police In Twin Cities

Medical Help Sought By Fond du Lac Man Identified Sunday

MENASHA — A Fond du Lac amnesia victim who disappeared last Wednesday was found by police here Sunday.

The man, 27, had last been seen when he rented a boat near Fond du Lac. The boat was found Thursday near Stoney Beach at Oshkosh. The life preserver was floating a short distance away.

Police agencies throughout the state received a teletype description of the man on Friday, stating he was a known amnesia victim and requesting that all railroad, bus and airline terminals be checked to see if he had bought a ticket to leave the area.

A citizen saw the man sitting on a curb at the corner of Water and High streets at 2:12 a.m. Sunday. A police officer questioned the man, who was unable to give his name or address. His wallet contained identification.

While he was being questioned he fell writhing to the ground and asked for medical help. He was taken to Theda Clark Memorial Hospital in a Neenah Fire Department ambulance.

Neenah police, overhearing Menasha officers discussing the case on police radio, suggested comparing his description with that contained in the Fond du Lac teletype message.

The man's wife and brother were notified and took charge.

Surveys Affirm Newspaper Still Prime Medium

Television Claims About Advertising, News Countered

Two recent surveys have affirmed that people turn first to their newspapers for news and buying information.

The latest Newsprint Information ommittee-financed research study has produced solid information naming newspapers the prime medium, countering television industry claims which have plagued newspapers in recent years.

These results put new perspective on findings of the widely-promoted Roper survey concerning television as a news medium.

Dr. Leo Bogart, executive vice president of the Bureau of Advertising, who counseled on the project, said:

Get News from Paper

"Our new study finds that on any given day four out of five people get news from the newspaper. With considerable overlapping, three out of five get news from television, and over half from radio.

"We find in our study that people consider television the best medium for action news in Vietnam or Washington. But when we take full range of specific information items in all four media, people select newspapers as the best source, far and away ahead of television."

In a similar study public advertising tastes were sampled.

Look for Ads

Two out of three people look forward to seeing the ads in their newspaper. Only one out of four says he looks forward to TV and radio commercials.

This study of the Opinion Research Corporation is entitled, "When People Want to Know."

Other findings revealed in the study were:

In three cases out of five, newspapers are ranked as the best way to find out what's really happening. Results show it is the one medium people turn to for information on their whole range of interests.

No. 1 Reference

The greater a person's interest in advertising information — such as data on something he wants to buy — the more likely he is to turn to print, with the newspaper as his No. 1 reference.

Interest level for ads is clearly three-quarters as high as for editorial information.

Bergstrom Asks

Has Neenah Industry Reached a Plateau?

NEENAH — N. H. Bergstrom, chairman of the board of Bergstrom Paper Co., has raised the question of the possibility that Neenah has reached an industrial plateau that could be the beginning of a downhill slide.

Writing in a company newsletter, "Late News and Views," Bergstrom referred to announced plans of Kimberly-Clark Corp. to close its sulphite mill at Kimberly.

He expressed concern over the lack of concern by the people in the area on the plans to shut down the Kimberly mill. He said that while Kimberly-Clark has practically guaranteed most of those employes would be absorbed somewhere in their organization, about 180 jobs would still be eliminated in Kimberly.

"We wonder who is going to do something about getting some new industry to come in and furnish 180 new jobs so that the community could at least continue on the same level, if not grow."

Bergstrom, referring to Neenah, said, "it is rather alarming to observe our competitors moving into other places because of the incentives given them. Who is next — Neenah?"

He indicated this was a similar situation to that which faced Oshkosh when it was a major lumbering center. "Today, the buildings are still there, and being rented to anybody who happens to need a warehouse."

Bergstrom closed his commentary with the questions: "Industrially, has Neenah reached its crest? It is now on a plateau — a comfortable, luxurious plateau, but the beginning of a slide downhill? What do you think?"

Expect Direction For Catholic High

NEENAH - MENASHA — No decisions will be made, but it is predicted that the five Catholic parishes will know in which direction they are going on building a proposed Catholic High School after the 8 p.m. meeting today at St. John Catholic church cafeteria.

The executive committee, the five pastors of the Twin Cities parishes and lay representatives from each of the parishes will meet to share their feelings and the thoughts transmitted from the parishioners on the decision to continue with plans, defer the building or drop the entire matter.

Firemen Work Hard To 'Save' Homeowner

PIKEVILLE, Ky (AP) — James Merida sits and looks at a five-foot hole in the floor of his home, thanks to a well-meaning passerby and several firemen.

The homeowner was digging a drainage ditch beneath his home recently with his feet innocently protruding from beneath the foundation. The passerby promptly called firemen and Merida later crawled out in time to see the firemen finishing their "task of mercy" inside.

Carlson is the former general manager of Jandrey's Department store.

The shop will be operated on a boutique set-up, with separate rooms for each type and class of women's clothing. Gift items, antiques and paintings by local artists will also be offered for sale.

One of the specialty features of the store will be dress designing and making by Patti Joannes who has designed clothes for such people as Lilly Pulitzer of Palm Beach, Fla.

Planning to Start For Neenah Core

NEENAH — The recently-created redevelopment authority, anxious to get started on the preliminaries for revamping the downtown area, will meet with the planners and economic analysts tonight to lay the groundwork for rejuvenation of the central business district.

It will be the first session since the authority was created on May 17.

said plans had not been discounted for developing it into a regular park

However, Heiss felt the 22-acre tract city officials have offered in the Roeland property was better for a park, including its wooded area.

Ald. James Bethke (9th), in whose ward all sites are located, asked Heiss in what areas he got the signatures for the petition.

Heiss replied, "In the territory yours wasn't circulated — the first and second precincts of the 9th Ward."

A previous petition bearing more than 350 signatures had been presented to the council that the Mielke property be the site for the school.

The plan commission today took the position it would act on the Hoover site if and when it is officially referred by the city council for a recommendation.

Camp Interest Declines

Boys Pass Up Chances For Conservation Work

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Too many eligible high school boys are passing up opportunities to enroll in the conservation work camps operated by the state Department of Public Welfare, a legislative committee has reported.

The report was written by a committee headed by Assemblyman Cletus Vanderperren, D-Brown County, and consisting of members of both legislative houses who visited dozens of state institutions of all kinds during the last two years.

The committee said it is "disturbed" by the fact that applications from high school boys for the summer conservation work have fallen off rapidly during the last several years, although the 600 places available have thus far been filled.

The camps, which started with considerable response five years ago, operate for two six-week periods, and are intended to attract young men interested in conservation and the outdoors.

The committee was warm in its praise of the camp idea, and the opportunities for conservation education extended through them.

But it said that more attractive work opportunities in the private sector are obviously reducing the number of such applications, and suggested the state might acknowledge such competition by providing a higher stipend to its camp workers. Pay has been $18 a week, and it will be $20 a week, effective this summer.

Recruit Leading Students

It noted also that the camps thus far have recruited leading high school students of the state, requiring the nominations of their high school principals. The committee speculated that if attendance continues to lag, the state might consider recruiting from "mildly delinquent" or "pre-delinquent" students.

The three camps now operating are near Neshkoro in Marquette County, at Manitowish Waters in Vilas County and at Lake Nancy in Bayfield County.

Asked to comment on the legislative committee's observations, Arthur P. Schmidt, a member of the Public Welfare Board, agreed that interest among boys has declined, but said if it continues his agency may propose a one shift program that would provide 12 weeks of work for interested youths.

He said also the Public Welfare Department would be doubtful of the wisdom of reducing the minimum age for eligibility below 16 years, as it is now set.

with the council's street and sanitation committee.

Commissioner Maurice Lewis said the No. 1 solution should be found for the traffic problem, and then consider whether it should be compromised to accommodate a business deal.

Contacted by Firms

Garvey said he had been contacted by retail firms desiring to be in downtown Appleton but the main problem was putting together a suitable amount of land.

"The day may come when the city will have to close some downtown street so land packages can be put together," Garvey suggested.

He felt his proposed retail project would increase the city's tax base, provide more parking in the downtown, result in better traffic flow and eliminate potential blight.

The commission-committee meeting is scheduled for mid-July.

In other action the commission:

Recommended property on the north side of Calumet Street west of Madison Street be rezoned from single to multiple family to permit apartment construction.

— Laid over for two weeks a request to rezone from single to two-family property at the southeast corner of Pershing and Meade Streets on which the owner wants to build two apartment buildings.

address, which was struck in the rear by a car driven by Timothy A. Bork, 19, 624 S. Telulah Ave. The Jacobs car was stopped behind another vehicle, before making a left turn.

Jack Schultz, 21, 1728½ N. Appleton St., suffered head, ear and side injuries in an accident about 2 a.m. Sunday in the 500 block of N. Richmond Street.

He was in a car driven by Dale K. Loewenhagen, 30, 2012 Patricia Lane, Appleton, which was involved in an accident with an auto driven by Milton D. Peotter, 23, Markesan, and a third car which police said left the scene.

The Loewenhagen and Peotter cars collided when they attempted to avoid hitting the third car which pulled onto Richmond Street from a driveway.

The Peotter car struck the unidentified vehicle. Police believe the unidentified vehicle has damage to the right rear and the side.

Jane Kesler, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kesler, 2412 N. Erb St., suffered a bump on the head and a cut lip when a car driven by her father and one driven by Daryl G. Lau, 16, 318 S. Main St., Brillion, collided about 10 p.m. Saturday at N. Mason Street and W. Wisconsin Avenue.

Police said the Lau car was westbound on Wisconsin and the Kesler car was northbound on Mason. The girl was not hospitalized.

A Midnight Cry for Help . . . Or Someone Calling 'Wolf'?

BY ALICE HUCK
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

There's a swamp across the road, a lake in front of the house, a teen-age dance going on just a mile away, and suddenly at 12:15 a.m., there's a cry in the night, ". . . Please help me!"

The dog barks, the cry comes once more. The moon is full. You can see its light bouncing along light ripples that do not indicate a boat in the water, or even a swimmer.

You turn on the yard light which diminishes the moonlight, but shows no movement on the road. Suddenly, there is no sound.

Silently Open Door

You put on a robe, chase the dog into the bedroom, and close the door so you can hear something beside the owls, silently open the porch door and take a few steps onto the sidewalk.

But all is quiet, except for the owls.

Is there someone in the water in trouble? Is there a teen-ager parked in a car down the road? Did someone slide into the swamp? One more sound, and you would have called the police.

But you've already called them once today about a speeding teen-ager in a black car who has been gunning his car on hills on this north shore Chain O' Lakes, Waupaca, road for two days.

Did you dream the cry? Did the dog dream the cry. Should you call the police? Nope, it's probably another kid calling "Wolf." It happens every summer.

But this morning before you leave for work at 6:30 a.m. you take another look at the lake, walk over the swamp, check the gravel pit where the more amorous teens park after the dance . . . and hope another reporter doesn't send a story across your desk indicating there really was a "cry for help."

Wilson Hurls No-Hit Win For Astros

Rookie, 22, Fans 15 Braves in 2-0 Win; Cards Capture Lead

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Wilson won't mind passing up another breakfast. . .if it means more champagne before dinner.

Wilson, a 22-year-old Houston rookie, pitched an overpowering, 2-0 no-hitter — first in the National League since 1965 — against the usually potent Atlanta Braves Sunday.

The 6-foot-3 right-hander walked three Braves, but struck out 15 — including five of the last six he faced —in hurling the first no-hitter in the Astrodome. And he did it all on an empty stomach.

"I didn't change one thing today," he said between sips of the bubbly stuff in the chaotic Astros clubhouse. "Oh yes, there was one thing. My wife didn't cook breakfast for me. She wasn't feeling good."

Would he skip breakfast before his next start?

"I'll try it one more time and see what happens."

Take Over Lead

Elsewhere in the NL, St. Louis trimmed San Francisco 4-1 to move past Cincinnati into first place while Los Angeles cuffed the Reds 5-3, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 5-3 and the Chicago Cubs split a doubleheader with the New York Mets, winning 4-3 after losing by the same score in 10 innings.

Wilson, who got a saving assist from third baseman Bob Aspromonte in the sixth inning, walked Denis Menke leading off the eighth, then struck out pinch hitters Rico Carty, Charles Lau and Clete Boyer.

In the ninth, Felipe Alou fouled out to Aspromonte, Tito Francona fanned — and slugging Hank Aaron stood between Wilson and the champagne.

"I consider him one of the best clutchers in the game," Wilson said later.

"I checked the scoreboard to see who they had coming up. I didn't want to face Aaron, but after I walked Menke in the eighth, I knew I'd have to."

Aaron ran the count to 3-2, fouled off the next pitch and then went down swinging.

"He just threw it right past me," Aaron said. "This kid threw as hard as anybody we've faced all year.

"He's the kind of guy that makes me want to retire from the game."

The Astros clipped Phil Niekro for their two runs in the fourth on Sonny Jackson's single, Jim Wynn's double, a single by Rusty Staub and an infield out.

The no-hitter was the first in the NL since Sandy Koufax beat the Cubs with a perfect game on Sept. 9, 1965. Baltimore's Steve Barber and Stu Miller combined for a no-hitter against Detroit on April 30, but the Tigers beat the Orioles 2-1.

Bo Belinsky, now with the Astros, was the last rookie to hurl

Nicklaus Fires Record 275, Wins Second 'Open' Title

Sinks 23-Foot Birdie Putt on Final Hole to Break Hogan's Mark; Palmer Finishes Second

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP) — "I felt like an idiot, standing there with a one-iron in my hand," Jack Nicklaus said. "But I knew what I had to do to win this golf tournament."

The bulky Golden Bear, at age 27 perhaps the best golfer the world has seen, was explaining the final moments of his record-shattering triumph in the United States Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

"I wasn't thinking about records," Nicklaus said over and over. "Records come. They're made to be broken. I just wanted to win this tournament."

He did. And—he insists it was entirely incidental—he broke Ben Hogan's 19-year-old Open scoring record of 276 by one stroke with a curling, 23-foot putt on the final hole.

It gave him a final round 65, five under par for the stately old Baltusrol Course, and a 72-hole total of 275, adding the Open scoring record to his Masters mark of 271.

But he was more concerned with adding this second Open title—he won his first in 1962 in his first year as a pro—to his collection of three Masters, a PGA and a British Open crown.

"I had to make a decision on the 18th tee," Nicklaus said. The 18th is a 542-yard, par 5 hole. "I was four strokes ahead and knew I had to beat (Arnold) Palmer to win it.

"Two things were going through my mind. One was what Arnie said last year, that he was thinking about breaking Hogan's record when he had that blow-up in San Francisco.

"The other was that Dick

Hollrah and Fitzmorris Pitch Foxes to Double Win Over Burlington

BURLINGTON, Ia. — Orville Hollrah and Al Fitzmorris fashioned a couple of nifty 3-hitters and Art Kusnyer drove in four runs from a 5-for-7 performance as Appleton swept a doubleheader from Burlington, 6-1, 9-1, here Sunday.

The double victory gave the Foxes a split in the 4-game series with Burlington and a 5-4 edge for the season.

Tonight, the Foxes will journey to Clinton for their third twin bill in succession.

With a pair of wins in four weekend games, Appleton remained three full games behind front-running Wisconsin Rapids, which was rained out Saturday night and split its doubleheader Sunday.

Flores Doubles

Fitzmorris lost his 1-hitter and a bid for his fourth shutout in the final inning of the nightcap when Bob Smith singled and Oscar Flores followed with a run-producing double.

It was the seventh straight triumph and ninth complete game for Fitzmorris, who last Tuesday shut out the same Bees.

Appleton got its initial run of the second game in the second when Kusyner singled, went to third on Jose Ortiz' single and scored as Chuck Brinkman forced Ortiz.

In the third, the Foxes pushed across five runs as they sent 10 men to the plate. There were three singles, three Burlington errors, two walks and a sacrifice in the inning.

Appleton added single runs in the fourth, fifth and seventh on a groundout, bases-loaded walk and Roy Radmaker's sacrifice fly.

Hollrah was in complete command in picking up his fourth victory against a lone defeat in the opener.

Only one batter got past second and that was when Peet Koegel spoiled his shutout with a 1-out solo home run in the second. The blast gave Burlington its only lead of the day.

Appleton knotted the score at 1-all in the third on consecutive singles by Jeff Kolb, Carlos May and Kusyner.

The Foxes added another in the fifth to break the tie as Kusyner drove in Deacon Jones, who had gotten on via an error.

Score 4 Runs

The Foxes broke the game wide open in the sixth with four runs. Karl Simon started it with a walk. He went to second on a passed ball and to third as Hollrah beat out an infield hit. One run scored on Kolb's groundout. The Foxes then loaded the bases as Radmaker singled and Jones was walked intentionally. Two runs came in then as Smith booted May's grounder and Kusyner drove in the final marker with a single.

Although the Foxes pounded Burlington pitching for 15 hits, the Bees had the only two extra-base hits of the twin bill.

Karl Simon, who was just added to the Foxes' roster when he finished his college term, replaced Ortiz in center field and made a couple of dandy catches in his first appearance. It was the first Foxes game this

Henry King Pitches 7 Perfect Innings for Macs in 4-0 Victory

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — Former Fox Cities Foxes hurler Henry King pitched a perfect game for seven innings and wound up with a 1-hitter and 15 strikeouts as the Menasha Macs beat Symco, 4-0, to highlight opening weekend play in the Fox Valley District baseball tournament.

Seymour edged Two Rivers, 5-4, Bonduel turned back Clintonville, 4-1, and Little Chute topped Navarino, 5-2 in other quarter-final games. Symco had defeated Freedom, 7-6, in Saturday's second game.

Next Saturday's semi-final will match Little Chute against Bonduel at 6:30 and Menasha against Seymour at 8:30. The meet will close Sunday afternoon.

John Moriarity singled on King's first pitch in the eighth to break up the perfect game. He was picked off first. An error later in the inning accounted for the only other Symco base-runner.

The Menashans made 10 hits off Dave Resch but left 10 runners on base.

They tallied three times in the seventh on a bases-loaded walk and Larry Thompson's 2-run double while Jim Bellin singled home the final marker in the eighth.

Time Limit

The game was called after eight innings because of the 1-hour, 50-minute time limit.

Hank Peerenboom collected three of his team's five hits and pitched fine relief ball as Little Chute stopped Navarino.

Peerenboom slammed a bases-empty homer in the third, drove in a run in the 3-run fifth and hit a double in the seventh. He relieved Terry Helding in the sixth and gave up only one hit and a walk in 3 and 1-3 innings.

Gene Peerenboom drove in two runs in the fifth with a single.

Navarino picked up 11 hits off the Little Chute duo but strandwas the losing pitcher. Mike ed 14 base-runners. Jim Meyer Rudie drove in both runs with a single in the sixth.

Cracks 2 Homers

Dan Ferry slammed two homers, including a 2-run blast in the sixth, in Seymour's conquest of Two Rivers. His clout in the first frame accounted for the other three runs.

Tom Ullmer, who relieved Wayne Gillson in the fifth inning, gained the win. Loser

Chisox Turn 39,319 Fans Into Believers

BY JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — Somebody had better start believing the Chicago White Sox pretty soon or they might run away and hide from the rest of the American League.

The Sox have been accused of everything from being a bore to being lucky, but the fact is they lead the league by 3½ games after sweeping a doubleheader from the New York Yankees Sunday 7-3 and 4-0.

Aside from lengthening their lead, the Sox turned a crowd of 39,319 into believers as they swept the three-game Yankee set while allowing the once awesome Bombers one measly earned run in the series.

"I guess a lot of people will read that we won a doubleheader and then say we were lucky," said Manager Eddie Stanky. "Now we have to convince the writers. Baseball men know anything can happen and a team with pitching can win a pennant."

Pitching always has been the big factor with the Sox, but Stanky credits alertness and a minimum of mistakes to his team's surge.

"We can't miss signs, we can't make errors and we have to back up plays if we're going to win," said Stanky.

"We've been called lucky, a bore and a team you can't beat in," he continued. "That's okay with me. A couple of weeks ago I sensed more and more that the players are beginning to believe we can win the pennant.

"That's the important thing because it gives a club momentum and we're becoming a bunch of opportunists. That's important, too."

Stanky is always being asked about his team's base-stealing statistics and the question rankles him because he knows why it is being asked.

The Sox have stolen 65 bases this season, but they also have been caught stealing 46 times and the ratio minimizes the fact they lead the league in steals.

"Those statistics seem to bother everyone but me," says Stanky. "A lot of times one of our slow runners will be going on a three-and-two pitch. The batter strikes out and the runner is cut down and that goes down as caught stealing. But we do pretty well when we steal by design.

"And what about that play involving Tommie Agee and Don Buford," said Stanky. "That goes down as caught stealing but we scored a very important run, didn't we?"

The play came in the sixth inning of the nightcap and the Sox had taken a 2-0 lead with Agee on first and Buford on third. Agee strayed and got caught in a rundown. While the Yankees were getting Agee, Buford streaked for the plate and scored.

"Buford's timing was beautiful," said Stanky. "That comes from knowing how to run. The statistics show Agee was caught stealing and Buford scored on a fielder's choice. That's the kind of statistical trade I'll make any time under similar circumstances."

Stanky has another winning formula. "I tell the players when we reach the seventh inning that we are now in the business end of the game because from the seventh inning on is when games are won or lost. The boys are responding admirably."

White Sox Take Pair From Yanks; KC Downs Detroit

Peters, John Shine in Chicago Wins; Take 11th in Last 13 Tilts

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

When he saw Manager Alvin Dark coming out to the mound, Kansas City pitcher Jim Hunter was disappointed.

When he found himself playing first base, Kansas City pitcher Jim Hunter was amazed

The managerial shell game occurred in the ninth inning of the Athletics' 8-4 triumph over Detroit Sunday Dark found his bullpen depleted after 28 innings of doubleheader baseball Saturday and figured he'd better not be too hasty in removing Hunter from the game altogether.

In other American League action Sunday, Chicago swept two from New York 7-3 and 4-0, Washington downed Boston 3-2 in 10 innings, California beat Baltimore 5-3 and Minnesota took Cleveland 4-2.

Hunter was protecting a five-run lead in the ninth, but when, with two out, the Tigers loaded the bases, Dark brought in rookie left-hander Tony Pierce.

"I wanted Pierce to pitch to (Gates) Brown," Dark said, "and have Hunter come back to pitch to (Al) Kaline I didn't have another right-hander in the bullpen because of that 19-inning game Saturday night."

So Dark sent first baseman Ramon Webster to the bench and put the surprised Hunter on first

"I didn't know what was coming off," said Hunter, who hasn't played first base since high school. "I wanted to finish the game"

As it turned out he did, but at first base, because Pierce struck out Brown and there was no further need for Hunter's pitching arm.

The Tigers' defeat, plus the White Sox double victory, put Chicago in front in the American League by 3½ games The Sox got great pitching from Gary Peters, who won his ninth game in the opener, limiting the Yanks to five hits, and from Tommy John, who shut out the Yanks on six hits in the finale.

Singles in Tenth

Hank Allen's pinch single with two out in the 10th inning gave Washington its triumph Batting for Mike Epstein, Allen drove in Bob Saverine, who led off with a walk and moved up on Ed Stroud's sacrifice Carl Yastrzemski tied the game in the ninth with his 16th homer of the season

Woodie Held continued to torment his ex-teammates in Baltimore, driving in two runs in the first inning of the Angels' victory over the Birds. In four games over the weekend, Held knocked in six runs. The Angels have now won 11 of their last 13 games while the Orioles have lost six of seven.

Tony Oliva returned from two days in a hospital bed just long enough to hit a three-run pinch double in the eighth inning of the Twins' game. Oliva, who ran into a fence Friday, got his hit off reliever Steve Bailey after the Twins scored their first run of the game when Harmon Killebrew walked with the bases loaded

The winners mounted an 11-hit assault against loser Dave LaBorde, while Kaukauna got only six hits off the Bay's Jim Brauer. Kaukauna made Sturgeon Bay's task easier by committing six errors in the field.

Jim Vandenburg drove in two of the Kaukauna runs on a single, while Quinn VandenHeuvel and Tom VandeHey got the other RBI VandeHey also had two hits.

Miller, Seagren Lead Way

Powerful USC Track Team Easy Winner

By LARRY KURTZ

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Southern California is collegiate track and field king once more, and the reign may be a long one.

That was obvious after the Trojans made a joke of the team competition in the 46th annual NCAA track and field meet at Brigham Young University Saturday night.

As 19,500 watched, Southern California broke the world 440-yard relay record with three sophomores and a junior, swept the top two places in the pole vault with two sophomores, and rolled up 86 points with surprising ease.

Oregon was a distant second with 40 points and defending champion UCLA was third with 27.

The Southern California relay youngsters include Lennox Miller, who finished second in both the 100 and 220 with times of 9.2 and 20.4; Fred Kuller, fourth in the 100; O. J. Simpson, sixth in the 100; and junior Earl McCullouch, high hurdle winner in 13 4

Second Under Record

With Miller running the anchor leg, the team flew around the track in 38.6, one full second under the listed world record. This same bunch had been clocked in 39 0 only seven days earlier.

Members of the relay team scored 41 points among them—enough to win the meet by themselves But that's only part of it.

Sophomore pole vaulters Bob Seagren and Paul Wilson put on an exciting show as both tried to clear a world-record height of 17-8. Seagren has the pending mark of 17-7, set only a few days before the meet.

Both men failed on three tries after clearing 17-4 but Seagren said someone might clear 18 feet later this year. He said he might be the one, with Wilson and UCLA vaulters Dick Railsback and Rick Sloan also having a chance.

Big Randy Matson of Texas A&M won the shot and discus titles for the second straight year and then said he would give up the discus next year.

"I'm a shot putter," he said "I'm going to concentrate on the shot. There are a lot of good discus men around."

Matson, who has a beat of 213-9 in the discus, won with a throw of 190-4 after his meet record 67-9¼ in the shot.

Lindgren Wins Twice

The other double winner, Gerry Lindgren of Washington State, said he was tired after the three-mile run Saturday night. He won the six-mile Thursday, and in both races finished with great margins

Tommie Smith, the San Jose State star who won the 220 in 20 2, said he was unhappy with his time—even though it was just a shade off his world record of 20 seconds flat.

Jim Ryun of Kansas, world record-holder in the mile, said the slow pace wiped out the possibility of a sub four-minute effort in Provo's 4,500-foot altitude. He sprinted the final lap in 52 5 and won in 4:03.5.

Lyle Schultz Wins Feature At KK Arena

KAUKAUNA — Appleton's Lyle Schultz captured the feature stock car race at the KK Sports Arena Saturday night.

Because of the local "monsoons" last week, the track was quite slippery, resulting in one roll-over and the restarting of every heat.

Schultz was followed by Lyle Nabbefeld of Wisconsin Rapids and Bob Kleinschmidt of Oshkosh.

The semi-feature race was won by Tom Hartzell of Sturgeon Bay while Randy Whitney, Pickett, and Dan Diemel, Navarino, were second and third, respectively.

The heat winners were Ken Buman, Appleton, first heat; Bryce Spoehr, Appleton, second heat; Claud LaDuc, West De Pere, third heat; and Nabbefeld, fourth heat.

Oshkosh's Dave Congor turned in the fastest lap time of the night, with a clocking of 16.85 seconds.

A benefit race for St Aloysius Parish, Kaukauna, will be held tonight with races slated to get underway at 8:15.

Stabilization Chief Concern

Rozelle Hints That 50,000-Seat Stadium Is 'Must' for NFL, AFL

BOSTON (AP)—Pete Rozelle, a one-time publicity man who guided the merger of the National and American leagues en route to an unchallenged role as pro football commissioner, admits his crystal ball doesn't have all the answers.

"I honestly don't know," Rozelle said Sunday when asked how much more the pro sport can grow. "My chief concern now is to stabilize everything—hold what we have."

Rozelle credited the fabulous growth of pro football to overall national acceptance by fans, television and "the incredible number of stadiums which have gone up since the mid 50s."

He noted that with the addition of New Orleans this season and Cincinnati next year the two pro leagues will have a total of 26 teams. Two more cities are expected to be granted franchises later.

'Magic Date'

Rozelle said that when the NFL and AFL club owners agreed to end their costly war and mapped merger plans at the peace table last year 1970 was set as "the magic date" to complete everything.

"Now it's erroneous to think of 1970 as the magic date," he said. "We've held our first championship game between the two leagues. We've held our first combined draft and we'll have our first inter-league preseason games this year. We also said we would expand and we have with New Orleans starting this year and Cincinnati getting ready for play in 1968."

Rozelle said the major significance of the 1970 date now is that is when inter-league play will begin and all clubs will divide television revenue equally Inter-league trading probably will be delayed until then because of various contracts, waivers rules and other factors.

In Boston to attend a 40th wedding anniversary dinner for former Harvard star and sportsman Nils V. (Swede) Nelson and his wife, Rozelle also got in a plug for a new stadium in the area.

He said that pro football does not desire to move franchises, but he warned that "enough problems could be created to force a possible move of a club" in a city without a stadium seating 50,000. The Patriots play AFL games in antiquated Fenway Park, with a 34,000 capacity.

On another subject, Rozelle said he still thinks the Super Bowl should be played in a warmer climate, despite protests of hometown fans of a championship club.

"If you make a travesty of your championship game, you're losing something," he said. "We recognize the loyalty of hometown fans However, the championship game is more than a local event. It's a national event. It's our showcase."

Susie Maxwell Wins Milwaukee Test

By KEN HARTNETT

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Susie Maxwell stood in the flush of victory Sunday after winning the Milwaukee Jaycee Open golf tournament and solemnly said she was ready to drop professional golf at the drop of a proposal.

"The tour is nice," said the 25-year-old Oklahoman after pocketing $2,250 — the biggest pay check of her pro career. "It's fun. It gives you a chance to travel all over and meet some wonderful people.

"But it's not the most important thing in a girl's life. To me that's getting married and having a family."

Susie, who says she's waiting for her beau in San Francisco to pop the question, climbed to second place on the Ladies Professional Golf Association 1967 earnings list with her five-stroke triumph carved out of rounds of 68, 73 and 75 for an even par 216.

Tied for second place with 221 totals were Barbara Romack, Sacramento, Calif., 73-74-74; Judy Kimball, Sutton, Mass., 72-73-76; Peggy Wilson, Bonsall, Calif., 73-72-76, and Judy Torluemke, North Key Largo, Fla., 73-63-75. Miss Torluemke is getting married and leaving the tour.

Shoots Par 72

In sixth place with the best 54-hole showing of her golf career was former tennis great Althea Gibson Darben with a 222, including a par 72 Sunday on the blustery North Shore Country Club course in suburban Mequon.

Miss Maxwell had a four-stroke lead going into the final 18 holes and it more than held up despite a rash of back nine bogeys. "I played rather shaky," said Miss Maxwell after taking the fourth tournament of her career and the second this season.

She missed a short putt on No. 11, overclubbed the green on No. 16 and got caught in a sand trap on No. 17 when an iron shot went astray in a stiff wind.

Her putter, a relic from college days reactivated for the tournament, made the difference.

"All tournaments are won on the putting green," she said, "and I putted well today." She needed only 31 putts.

Kathy Whitworth, the defending champion, and Mickey Wright, who was hoping for a second-straight tournament victory, were the major disappointments of the open.

Both were far off form and finished well down the money list with 227s. Miss Wright, who was hampered by an ailing left wrist, shot a horrendous —for her—79 Sunday. She three-putted four greens on the front nine.

Amateur honors went to Lida Lee Matthews of Portsmouth, Ohio, with a 239, including a 77 Sunday. Mary Beth Nienhaus of Appleton was second with a 244, finishing with back to back 77s after an opening round 86.

Mrs. Paula Clauder of Milwaukee, the amateur leader for the first two rounds, shot an 84 Sunday to blow her lead and finish with a 243.

Record Crowd of 38,500 Sees 'Sprints'

Pipin Wins at Road America

Pipin pushed his Tero-Chevrolet Mark I at an average speed of 87.859 miles per hour to post his surprise come-from-behind win. Skip Hudson of Arlinton, Calif., led for most of the race and had a comfortable eight mile lead with only three laps left when his new McKee Oldsmobile left the race with a broken gear.

Pipin finished about half a lap ahead of Budd Clusserath of Hammond, Ind. Clusserath was driving a McKee Mark VI in the feature event for C, D, E, F and G sports racing cars. Third was Jerry Rosbash of Minneapolis, Minn., in a Genie Chevrolet.

Wins 60-Miler

In other races Sunday, Dick Eisenmann of Grafton, Wis., won a 60-mile race for formula cars. He pushed his Lotus 27 to a winning average speed of 83.858 miles per hour.

Ed Walsh of St. Louis drove a Bobsy-Saab to victory in a 60-mile race for F and G production cars and H sports racers. He averaged 77.005 miles per hour.

In another 60-mile event Bob Kimes of Dayton, Ohio, averaged 76.267 miles per hour in a Morris-Cooper to win the race for H production cars and C and D sedans.

Sunday's track record crowd of 38,500 swelled the attendance total for the two days of sprints to 54,500. There were seven races on the program.

Mayer took a seven on this same hole and lost the Open in 1954.

"Those were the things I was thinking about. I knew the only way Arnie could catch me was for him to get a three and me a seven. So I was shooting for a six or better.

"So I took out a one iron—I felt like an idiot doing it — and aimed it down the right side of the fairway. I was in the rough, on something that looked like a cable. So I got a drop and hit an eight iron back to the fairway."

He reached the green in three "and that's when I knew I had the tournament won."

Much Earlier

For all intents and purposes, however, he had it won much earlier, when he reeled off a string of three straight birdies on the third through fifth holes. That gave him a lead he never relinquished.

Palmer, who was tied with Nicklaus and Casper for second going into the final round, finished with a 69 for second place at 279. Playing in the same twosome with Nicklaus, he didn't get a birdie until the 17th, but added another at the 18th.

Casper, the defending champion, was bothered by driving problems and settled for fourth with a 72 for 282, one stroke back of Don January, who had a final round 70.

Marty Fleckman, the 23-year-old amateur from Port Arthur, Tex., who led the third round, blew sky high with an 80 for 289, putting him far, far back in the pack. He started with three bogeys, and also bogeyed six of seven holes on the back nine.

Hogan, 55, seeking his fifth Open title, had a final 72 for 292.

Ecuador Takes 2-1 Lead in 'Cup' Series

Ashe and U.S. Doubles Team Suffer Setbacks

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador (AP) —Tiny Ecuador needed only a split in today's final two singles matches to oust the powerful U.S. team in the American Zone Davis Cup tennis playoffs.

But despite the double defeat suffered by his team Sunday and the 2-1 deficit it faces in the best-of-5 series, George MacCall, nonplaying captain of the American team, remained confident that the United States would win.

"It should be better than even money that we will win both singles," said MacCall, after watching Miguel Olvera lead a stirring Ecuador comeback.

Olvera whipped Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 and then teamed with Francisco Guzman for a 0-6, 9-7, 6-3, 4-6, 8-6 victory over Clark Graebner of Beachwood, Ohio and Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., in the doubles.

Cliff Richey of Dallas beat Guzman 6-2, 2-6. 8-6, 6-4 in the opening singles Saturday.

Today's singles pitted Richey against Olvera and Ashe against Guzman.

Astros' Wilson Hurls No-Hitter Against Braves

a no-hitter, accomplishing the feat for the Los Angeles Angels against Baltimore in 1962.

Two former Houston pitchers — Don Nottebart and Ken Johnson — pitched no-hitters for the Astros on the road, Nottebart beat the Phillies 4-1 in 1963 but Johnson was beaten by Cincinnati 1-0 the next year.

Stymies Braves

Harvey Haddix was the last pitcher to stymie the Braves, pitching 12 perfect innings against them in 1959 before losing 1-0 on Joe Adcock's 13th inning double.

Dick Hughes stopped San Francisco on four hits and Orlando Cepeda cracked a two-run homer against his former mates as the Cardinals climbed into first place by six percentage points.

Left-hander Claude Osteen weathered Cincinnati 12 hits and stroked a two-run single, helping the Dodgers knock the Reds out of the top spot for the first time since April 27.

Matty Alou collected four hits for the second day in a row, leading the Pirates past Philadelphia. Winning pitcher Tommie Sisk drilled a two-run single in a four-run first inning burst that offset the Phillies' late surge.

Tom Reynolds' leadoff homer in the 10th inning lifted the Mets past Chicago in the opener but the Cubs snapped a 3-3 deadlock in the eighth inning of the nightcap on Lee Thomas' sacrifice fly, following singles by Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams.

Arizona State Wins NCAA Baseball Title

Romps Over Houston For Second Crown In Three Seasons

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Ron Davini, fiery little catcher for Arizona State's NCAA baseball champs, was dumbfounded when told he had been voted most outstanding player of the 21st College World Series Sunday night.

"I can't talk, except to say several other guys deserved it more," stammered the 19-year-old sophomore from Anaheim, Calif.

The award was a tribute to Davini's .409 Series hitting and superb fielding. His uniform is always the first to get dirty. His teammates call him "pig pen." He's so excitable, Coach Bobby Winkles had him write "relax" in big letters on the back of his catcher's mitt.

A second NCAA baseball crown in three years, gained with an 11-2 romp over Houston, is a tribute to the coaching and recruiting zeal of Winkles, a 37-year-old former White Sox infielder from Swifton, Ark.

Nine players from his 1966 club signed pro contracts, including Riggie Jackson, now with the Kansas City Athletics.

2 Appleton Teams Win In Tourney

Jitter & John's, Schouten's Also Notch Victories

Strength in Vietnam Relates to Fiscal Policy

Westmoreland Wants 140,000 More Men; Johnson May Conditionally Approve

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Although precise details are a closely-held secret, Gen. William Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, wants to bring nearly 140,000 new U.S. troops into the fighting — making a total of 600,000-plus.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara's trip to Saigon to confer with Westmoreland, however, won't produce official confirmation that President Johnson has approved a ground-troop escalation appraching anything like that.

The far more likely prospect is that Mr. Johnson will approve the reinforcement only in staggered amounts. Thus, if the McNamara-Westmoreland conference produces any announcement at all, it will be something less than 80,000 reinforcements.

The budget for fiscal year 1968, which starts July 1, is based on a troop level of 500,000 Americans in South Vietnam. There is reason to believe, however, that this estimate underestimates the war cost by as much as $5 billion. Further reinforcements anything close to Westmoreland's request would, of course, swell the budget deficit, which the Administration now very conservatively estimates at $14 billion.

Thus the President's decision on Westmoreland's request for more troops is highly dependent on fiscal, as opposed to military, criteria.

If the war cost creates a 1968 deficit of even close to the $29 billion figure now being used by Congressional pessimists, President Johnson will face an economic crisis fully as difficult as his military headache in Vietnam.

Meany's Boo-Boo

The death of President Johnson's plan to merge the Department's of Labor and Commerce was directly due to AFL-CIO president George Meany's inability to deliver his AFL-CIO executive council as promised.

The story of how this well-laid plan went awry starts with the President's penchant for supersecrecy. Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz did not know about Mr. Johnson's plan to merge the two departments until the Sunday before the State of the Union message was delivered to Congress on Tuesday, January 10.

Anticipating an angry reaction from bureaucrats in both Labor and Commerce, Mr Johnson kept the merger inside the White House until the last minute. The proposal was inserted in the State of the Union message on Sunday only after the President had cleared it with Meany, Mr. Big of U.S. labor. With Meany's assent, thought Mr. Johnson, the plan would have clear sailing in Congress no matter what bureaucrats thought.

But when the proposal was unveiled on Jan. 10, powerful members of the AFL-CIO executive council screamed. When Meany presided over a routine meeting of the council in February, criticism of the merger overwhelmed him Caught between his own angry colleagues and his earlier consent to President Johnson, Meany took the obvious out: he went back to the President, explained that the merger had loosed a hornets' nest, and withdrew his approval. That explains the President's own decision to back away.

A footnote· Administration chiefs claim the plan is still alive under study by Mr. Johnson's committee on labor-management policy. In fact, it is stone-cold dead

Moderates Veto Reagan

Fears by moderate Republican leaders that rank-and-file moderates are being seduced by California Gov. Ronald Reagan's new image have been dispelled by a secret mail poll.

The Presidential poll, sent to the mailing list of Republicans for Progress (a national moderate Republican organization), shows these preliminary results: Gov. George Romney of Michigan, 29.6 per cent; Richard M. Nixon, 21.5 per cent; Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, 21.2 per cent; Sen Charles H. Percy of Illinois, 19.6 per cent; and Reagan, only 2.9 per cent.

The breakdown of around 70 per cent moderate (Romney-Rockefeller-Percy) and 30 per cent conservative (Nixon-Reagan) simply reflects the built-in bias of the mailing list. But surprising to the moderate leaders was Rockefeller's strength and Reagan's weakness.

Clif White and Percy

A most intriguing political conversation on Capitol Hill came out of a private visit to Sen. Charles H. Percy by F. Clinton White, chief architect of Barry Goldwater's nomination for President.

It was their first prolonged meeting, and it came off well. Percy was particularly impressed that White, far from being a rightwing ideologue, was highly sophisticated in his approach to public affairs.

White has spurned feelers from both the Romney and Nixon camps, hoping to be a backstage force at the National Convention. There is doubt, however, whether White could rally his conservative allies in various state delegations behind Percy, whose flexible stand on cold war questions infuriates the right wing.

Bronze Kennedy Bust Shipped to Town in Panama

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bronze bust of President John F. Kennedy more than twice life size will be shipped south in a month or so to adorn the village square of Nueva Gorgona, Panama.

It is the work of Joan Caryl of the Georgetown University department of fine arts, who undertook it in November 1966 when a former Peace Corpsman in Panama walked into her office and said, "The kids in this town have scraped together $44 for a bust of Kennedy, but I can't find an artist who will touch the job for that price."

The Peace Corpsman, Gary Ulrich, now a Georgetown graduate student, had helped erect a pedestal in the village square and promised them he'd find a bust of Kennedy for it.

Mrs. Caryl says, "I felt that somehow I had to help them out." The $44 paid for the clay she used. She contributed her time and the cost of casting.

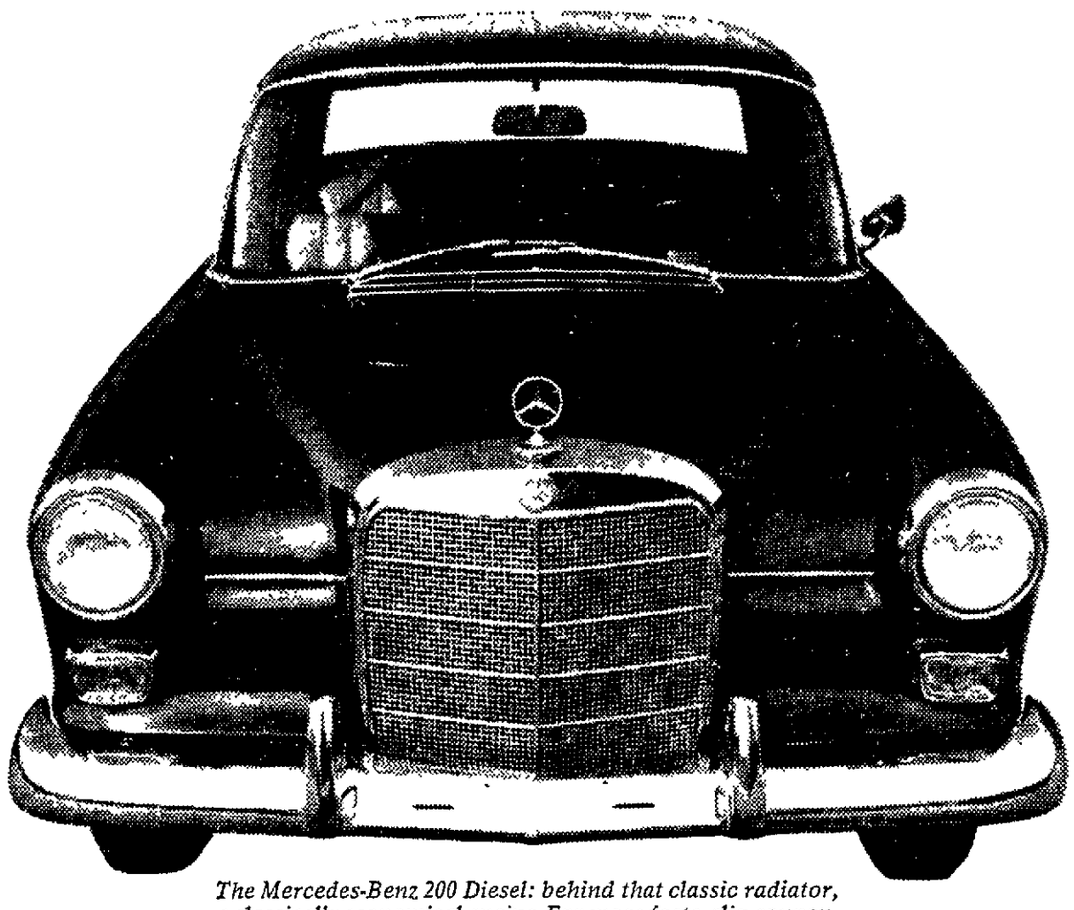
An economy car so economical it doesn't use gasoline: the Mercedes-Benz 200 Diesel.



The Mercedes-Benz 200 Diesel: behind that classic radiator, a classically economical engine. For more facts, clip coupon.

It burns inexpensive diesel fuel, at a miserly rate. It does without spark plugs, carburetors or distributors. Major overhauls before 75,000 miles are almost unheard of. These and other amazing facts make the Mercedes-Benz 200 Diesel one of the most economical cars ever invented — and a bargain at $4305*. Read the whole impressive story.

Give it the same care you'd use with any other piece of fine machinery, and your Mercedes-Benz 200 Diesel should cost less to run — and last far longer — than any car you've ever owned.

Supporting evidence: A hundred-thousand-mile career isn't unusual for a Mercedes-Benz Diesel. In fact, many owners have reported actually exceeding the five-hundred-thousand-mile mark.

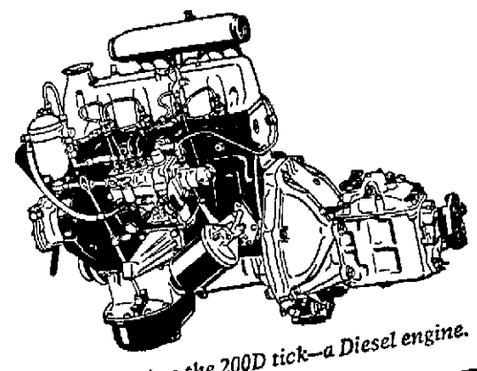
And of the 500,000 Mercedes-Benz Diesels built since 1936, a recent survey found that over 87% are still ticking along.

REVEALING THE DIESEL SECRET:

A Mercedes-Benz engineer discloses how a Diesel can cut costs and last so long:

"The basic secret is efficiency. Unlike the carburetors in gasoline engines, a Diesel uses injection nozzles to force an exactly metered amount of fuel, at just the right instant, directly into the combustion chamber.

"There, sheer compression heat — not a spark — ignites the fuel, with a high-energy explosion twice as powerful as in a standard gasoline V-8.



What makes the 200D tick—a Diesel engine.

"This means more energy is squeezed out of every drop of fuel to turn the crankshaft. By this efficient combustion, much less fuel is wasted.

"Finally, a Diesel engine is a short-stroke design for more power with less piston travel and wear. And to withstand those high-energy explosions, a Diesel engine's block and crankshaft and bearings are all built to extra heavy-duty specifications."

The balance sheet
By using less expensive diesel fuel and less of it, the 200 Diesel saves money every time you fill up.

It uses no spark plugs, distributors, carburetors or points — so you'll never pay to repair or replace them.

And it's so strong, so durably built, that with proper care it will last for hundreds of thousands of miles — long after other cars have been chopped up for scrap.

The drawbacks? A Diesel engine makes a different sound than ordinary engines, and diesel fuel isn't available on every corner.

But these are minor points indeed. With its new five-main-bearing crankshaft, the 200 Diesel runs so smoothly at cruising speed that only a trained ear could tell it from a gasoline engine.

And you can buy diesel fuel at the thousands of stations that serve Diesel trucks. When you do tank up, you can go up to 500 miles before refueling.

Flimsy it isn't
Mercedes-Benz builds only a few thousand Diesels every year — and takes pains to build them right. This is one economy car that isn't cheaply made.

The 200 Diesel weighs a full one-and-a-half tons. Much of its heft comes from a heavy-gauge steel "unit" body shell, welded to a reinforced frame floor.

All told, a 200 Diesel body carries 10,000 welding points.

Welding seams are ground by hand. Corner joints are filled with pewter, blow-torched, smoothed down and polished. The entire body is held under the surface in a primer tank long enough to be completely coated, inside and out.

If the finish of your Diesel seems unusually rich and deep, remember that it's been painted three times with high-gloss enamel — and then hand rubbed.

Engineered to the hilt
The Diesel's economy and durability almost overshadow the fact that this is a superbly roadworthy machine.

You sweep over bumpy back roads on a fully independent, rear swing-axle suspension (the same design used on the $6,897 250 SL sports car). You corner without wallowing or wildly squealing tires.

Caliper-type disc brakes are standard equipment on the front wheels. Scorching panic stops don't faze disc brakes — a reassuring fact. And they're power-assisted.

As other standard items, the Diesel counts 4-ply, high-speed tires; 4-speed manual transmission; even a built-in ventilation system that assures a constant fresh-air supply when all windows are shut tight.

Front-seat passengers are cradled in big separate seats, carefully shaped and padded to curb fatigue on long trips. The rear seat — also contoured — measures five feet across. Check that figure against far larger "luxury" sedans. You'll be pleasantly startled.

A word on safety
Mercedes-Benz has received widespread publicity about its safety engineering achievements over the past several years.

Work continues to make Mercedes-Benz cars even safer, both in avoiding trouble, and in protecting you if trouble should occur.

For sane drivers, Mercedes-Benz cars can help reduce the hazards of driving — without dulling its pleasures.

But however well engineered it may be, no car can entirely defend against the showoff, the drunkard, or the neurotic bent on self-destruction. Safety depends on you, too.

Democrats Seek More School Aids in Struggle With GOP

Local Property Tax Increases Felt Certain Without Subsidy

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The big question of the week in state capitol politics was whether the ruling Republican party in the legislature will be able to stand up under the demands of the Democrats for another big boost in state school subsidies to prevent widespread local property tax increases regarded as virtually certain next year without such additional state financing relief.

With the school administrators' and school boards' lobby applying immense pressure, the Democratic leadership sensed that it had what is perhaps the best political issue of the legislative year, and taunted the Republicans without respite at every opportunity during the week.

If there was any sense of discouragement about the fact that the Republican majority lines appeared to hold solidly, it was balanced at the weekend by the unqualified declaration of the state Department of Public Instruction that painful local school tax rises are inevitable, indeed, unless the legislature pours more money into local school budgets.

Warns of Increases

William C. Kahl, state superintendent of public instruction, holds an elective office that is non-partisan. Kahl carefully addressed his appeal, with statistical evidence, to Assemblyman Russell Wartinbee of LaCrosse, the Republican chairman of the Assembly Education Committee. But the effect of his letter was to support the Democratic position, as Democratic leaders in the legislature's lower house jubilantly noted when his message to Wartinbee was made public.

Kahl said the average tax increase in the state under present state budget arrangements would be at least two mills next year, in spite of the fact that the newly enacted general appropriation law provides about $70,000,000 more in state money for local schools than did the previous budget. The state now finances about 35 per cent of all local school expenditures, in the state as a whole. The new budget takes into account increasing school enrollments, but it does not provide for state help to meet the inflation in per capita school costs, as the Democrats drove home time and again in dozens of critical speeches during the week.

Cited by Area

By accident or design, Kahl's list of examples of likely local tax increases included some of the localities represented by prominent Republicans. Even some of the supposedly wealthy Milwaukee suburbs will have tax increases, unless the state acts, he said. So hugely have school costs grown that the city of Milwaukee, which used to be regarded as a kind of tax reservoir for the financing of state school subsidies sent elsewhere, is now eligible for the so-called "equalization" aids from the state treasury and is adding its weight to the pressure upon the law-makers.

Republicans thus far have charged that to accept the Democratic demand for a heavy new appropriation — $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 will probably be required to stabilize the local school tax rate state-wide — without providing a financing feature would be irresponsible.

Democrats have responded that they will produce a tax plan, when the school aid issue and other school and welfare proposals they are supporting are enacted. But they have also charged that the Republicans will oppose their revenue scheme, generally thought to be another upward boost in the personal income tax rates.

At stake for the Republicans is the validity of the "no new tax" theme of the Knowles administration, which has had an effective publicity response thus far.

Assemblyman David Martin of Neenah, assistant leader of the assembly majority Republicans, has charged the Democrats with scheming to embarrass Knowles, either by destroying his balanced budget record, or by forcing him to veto a school aid measure that would bring down upon him the wrath of hundreds of local school officers.

But there is considerable doubt that the Republican resistance can hold, and already there are private talks underway about a Republican-sponsored school aid bill, probably of smaller size, with a financing provision that would not affect either the income or sales tax rates.

The search will be for a financing expedient that would not classify as a general tax increase, so as to avoid nullifying the "no new tax budget" of the administration. One possibility is an increase in the excise tax on beer, which alone of all of the state's taxes, has stood unchanged for more than three decades. Another might be a "skim-off" of income tax receipts that are sent to the localities of residence of income taxpayers, which would have the effect of redistributing the money, taking it from the comparatively affluent communities, and paying it out in higher subsidies to those localities with smaller local tax resoures and higher school tax rates.

Thus the Republicans might hope to persuade the taxpayers that they did in fact manage a general budget of record size without boosting general taxation, while providing additional school funds to meet an emergency. The decision will probably be disclosed next week.

Men Charged With Giving Liquor to 16-Year-Old Girl

Two young Appleton men picked up after an alleged drinking incident early Wednesday morning, were arraigned in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Friday afternoon on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old Appleton girl by furnishing her with liquor.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller appointed attorney Dennis Wydeven to represent Michael Whitman, 21, 430 E. Lincoln St. after finding Whitman to be indigent.

However, Judge Keller refused to appoint legal counsel at county expense for Larry A. Steidl, 25, 128 N. Oneida St. Steidl told the court he was without funds for an attorney, but during an indigency hearing conducted by Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer, it was learned Steidl has five acres of land near Wausau.

Judge Keller told the man since he had the land, he could hire his own attorney.

Continue Case

The cases against Whitman and Steidl were continued to Tuesday afternoon. The men were jailed in lieu of posting $500 bonds.

Appleton detectives sought the charges after finding the girl in a drunken condition on W. Pacific Street about 3 a.m. Wednesday. Police allege that the girl was given the liquor in a Pacific Street apartment. After she became ill she was taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Your Money's Worth

Trademark Important To Product's Appeal

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Would you buy a frozen food called "Ready-Choke"? Or a cigarette named "Coughо"? Or a shaving cream entitled "Skin-Graft"?

Almost surely you would not, because no matter how excellent the product might be, the name itself would repel you.

Sylvia Porter

These extreme examples suggest how not to name a consumer product and why corporation managements go to enormous efforts to find names which will draw consumers to their products and thus protect their investment in the development of the products.

Sylvia Porter

Would you be reminded of well-known products that have long been available in the marketplace if you saw a new soft drink called "Canada Wet" on your supermarket shelf or a new whisky named "Vat 70" in the corner liquor store?

Almost surely you would, because these names would be so similar to those of an existing soft drink and a whisky. These extreme examples explain why the U. S. Patent Office automatically rejects any application for a trademark which is confusingly similar to a name already on the market and which could mislead us.

Would you casually write on your shopping list a reminder to buy kleenex or vaseline or band-aid bandages?

Almost surely you would, and by so doing, you would commit the common error of using these as descriptive names rather than as identifications of specific products. Each of these is a trademark and each must be capitalized when you use it to identify it as a specific product. (Also trademarks, incidentally, are Jeep, Dixie Cup, Ping-Pong, Dictaphone.)

About two years ago, Canada Dry Corp. developed a soft drink which it named "Wink." Its search for this name provides a fascinating insight into the little-known story of trademarks and their meaning to industry and us.

ZZZ Rejected

"We were reaching," says David J. Mahoney, president and chief executive officer of Canada Dry, "for a name that could be easily memorized, that would reflect action as part of the go-go generation, and that would be pleasant to the ear and eye." Before deciding, the company and its advertising agency considered and turned down almost 200 suggestions — including Boing, ZZZ, Wow, Id and In.

Once "Wink" had been selected, Canada Dry's legal department put on an extensive search to make sure the name was available. In Mahoney's words: "We had to be certain that there was no other soft drink on the market with a name so similar that we would seem to be trading on it. For example, had we found a soft drink with the name of 'Wank,' we would have had to abandon our choice."

As soon as it received clearance from its own searchers, Canada Dry filed application for the name's registration with the U. S. Patent Office. The Patent Office then conducted its own search and only after it had concluded that the name complied with the trademark laws, did the company receive permission to use the "R" in connection with the mark. The original term of registration runs for 20 years and may be renewed thereafter.

What does a trademark mean to us?

Proof of Quality

It is a guarantee of the source of a product and the level of quality. The older the trademark, the greater the proof that the quality of the product has survived the challenge of the marketplace.

It is a protection against false description of the nature, function or capacity of the product. As an illustration, the Patent Office would not permit registration of the name "Nylodown" for a sleeping bag which contained neither nylon nor down.

It is assurance that the trademark owner is not taking undue advantage of the name of a respected national organization. There is a legal prohibition against the registration of certain emblems or names which are associated with such national organizations as the Red Cross or Boy Scouts.

Wouldn't Fly Beer

It is a safeguard against our being misled into thinking that a new product is made by a well-known manufacturer because of the new product's name. Of course, if an airplane and a beer have the same name, there would be no confusion. We wouldn't try to drink an airplane or make a reservation to fly home on a beer.

A major corporation may spend millions of dollars on development and marketing of a single product. "Yet, if the name it chooses leaves a bad taste or an erroneous impression," Mahoney points out, "the entire investment may end up worthless."

So "what's in a name?" If it's a trademark, the investment of countless totals of dollars, countless hours of thinking and searching, countless hours of policing.

80% of the "wonder drugs" your hospital uses now were unknown 15 years ago

Behind the scenes in every modern hospital is a completely equipped pharmacy. It keeps ready for instant use over 2,000 vital pharmaceuticals. Many of these qualify as "wonder drugs." They work medical miracles. They help save lives. And most of them weren't even in existence 15 years ago.

Stocking a modern hospital pharmacy and staffing it with skilled pharmacists — costs money. It's one more element of expense the hospital must pay. And it's another item that inevitably shows up on the patient's hospital bill.

But the hospital pharmacy, like everything else pertaining to modern hospital care, is vital to saving lives and getting people well faster. That's why hospitals must have expensive cardiac care centers. And $100,000 x-ray equipment. Plus a long list of other costly equipment. And most important of all, trained personnel.

Sure. Modern hospital and medical care costs money. And costs are going higher every year. What's the best way to meet this fact of life? Join the 1,150,000 members of Wisconsin Blue Cross, and the 880,000 members of Surgical Care Blue Shield. They have the kind of health protection that keeps pace with medical progress. Johnson Issues Plan For Peace in Mideast

5-Point Program Given; Kosygin Blames U.S. For Israeli-Arab War

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin confronted each other indirectly this morning on the Mideast crisis, with the Russians blaming the United States for the six-day war which began two weeks ago.

The President, in what was described as a major policy statement on the U.S. position in the Mideast, set forth "five great principles of peace" for Israel and the Arab countries. He dealt with the withdrawal of Israeli forces from captured Arab territory, the problem of Arab refugees, freedom of passage through international waterways, Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist and limitations on the Middle East arms race.

The President added that a simple withdrawal of Israeli forces would "not be a prescription for peace but for renewed hostilities," unless accompanied by negotiations for a general peace settlement in the area.

Johnson spoke to a foreign policy conference of educators at the State Department.

Johnson, laying down "five great principles of peace" for the Middle East, appealed to the nations there to shun another arms race, abandon "a diet of hate," and strive for a settlement.

'Peace of World'

"The world is watching," he said, "for the peace of the world is at stake."

The President's statement generally appeared to support what is understood to be an Israeli position on troop withdrawals, that is, any agreement to withdraw Israeli troops from Egypt, Jordan or Syria should be linked to issues of vital interest to Israel, notably Arab recognition.

Johnson for the most part was careful not to name specific countries, but it was clear he was speaking of Egypt when he referred to the closing of the Straits of Tiran, an action announced by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser about two weeks before the fighting started.

"If a single act of folly was more responsible for this explosion (the recent war) than any other," Johnson said, "it was the arbitrary and dangerous announced decision that the Straits of Tiran would be closed."

Through U.N.

Johnson, saying Israel and the Arab states must be the peace makers, promised U.S. support for peace measures, both through the United Nations and through other methods.

"I offer assurance to all, the President said, "that the government of the United States will do its part for peace, in every form, and at every level and at every hour.

Looking solemn, Kosygin

LBJ's 5 Points

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said in his foreign policy speech today the United States was committed to a Middle East peace based on these five principles:

— "First, the recognized right of national life.

—"Second, justice for the refugees.

— "Third, innocent maritime passage.

— "Fourth, limits on the wasteful and destructive arms race;

— "And fifth, political independence and territorial integrity for all."

President Nasser Chooses Himself

Becomes Cabinet's Premier In Shuffling of Government

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt announced sweeping changes in the government today and named himself premier of a new Cabinet, Cairo Radio said.

The Cabinet shuffle was announced 10 days after Nasser had offered to resign as leader of Egypt in the wake of the Arab-Israeli war. Nasser's resignation was withdrawn when the National Assembly refused to accept it.

Cairo Radio said Nasser had appointed four vice presidents in the new government. One of them was Zakaria Mohieddin, whom he had named as his successor when he resigned.

Keeps Position

Sidky Soliman, replaced as premier by Nasser, was named vice president and minister of industry and power. He also was named minister for the Aswan High Dam.

Nasser, who retained his position as president, dismissed his former minister of war, Sams al Din Badran, and named Mohammed Abdel Wahab Bishri as the new minister for war and war production. Bishri was war minister in Nasser's 1962 Cabinet."

Mahmoud Riad was kept on as foreign minister. Mahmoud Fawzi, a former foreign minister, was named vice president and presidential aide for foreign affairs.

Cairo Radio gave no reason for the government changes.

The newspaper Al Ahram, however, which often speaks for Nasser, reported earlier that the Cabinet would be changed and Nasser would be appointed secretary-general of the Socialist Union, Egypt's only political party.

Closer Contact

Al Ahram said this wuold bring the government into closer contact with the Egyptian people.

The presidential decree broadcast by Cairo Radio made no mention of the Socialist Union. But Al Ahram said Nasser would succeed Ali Sabri, an old comrade in arms, as secretary-general.

The presidential decree said the four vice presidents were Mohieddin, Fawzi, Hussein Mahmound Shaffi and Sabri.

Shaffi was also appointed minister of religious and social affairs, and Sabri was named minister of local administration.

Father's Day Comes, Goes Without Baby

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Father's Day came and went and Luci Johnson Nugent said she saw no signs her baby's birth was imminent.

Counting on having the baby by Sunday, though, Luci had provided an oval picture frame as a Father's Day gift for President Johnson.

His grandchild's photo was supposed to go in it. Instead, Luci said she provided a poem, explaining about the empty frame. The felt lining of the picture frame was half in pink, half in blue, with question marks in pink on the blue and in blue on the pink.

Luci provided this information for reporters after she and her husband, Patrick J. Nugent, attended 11:15 a.m. mass Sunday at their Roman Catholic parish church, St. Mary's Cathedral.

Nearby, at St. David's Episcopal Church, Luci's mother, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, was attending services. The First Lady has been staying overnight with the Nugents at their fashionable Austin home to be with them when the baby comes.

Mother-to-be Luci was turned out for church in an accordion pleated minitent, inches above her knees, worn with white fishnet stockings and white shoes. The print dress was red, yellow, pink and orange with a big white bib collar. Luci wore a white head band across her shoulder-length black hair.

Hussein Says He's Not Sure Of U.S. Raids

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein said today he had no conclusive evidence that British and U.S. planes working from aircraft carriers had helped Israel fight the Arabs.

"I am not accusing any particular nation, but we do not say it is beyond the possibility of having happened," the king said.

Hussein thus did not associate himself with the charges by the Egyptian High Command that American and British planes had been seen helping Israel.

"We would like to know exactly what happened," Hussein told a news conference. "We would like to know whether it was Israel alone, or assisted from any quarter. We would like to know that."

Hussein said Jordan had sent to its U.N. mission a record of all Jordanian radar observations from May 18 up to 1 p.m. Monday, June 5, the day the war started. At that time, he added, Jordanian radar was destroyed.

"We are making these records available to any international body that may be pursuing this matter," Hussein said.

"We can only give what we saw and what we thought at a certain point. We leave it to others to reach conclusions."

Mayor Meier Denies Charge Of Segregation

HONOLULU, Hawaii (AP) — Milwaukee Mayor Henry Maier, speaking on a network television program Sunday, denied that Milwaukee is the most segregated big city in the nation.

Maier and five other mayors, here for meetings of the U.S. conference of mayors, were interviewed on the nationally televised "Meet the Press" show.

"We do have the most segregated suburbs in the United States," Maier said, "but not the central city."

When asked whether housing within Milwaukee's central city is desegregated, Maier said the city is "operating under a state housing law, which is as it should be."

45 Killed by Americans

Guerrilla Battalion Smashed

SAIGON (AP) — A hard-core battalion of some 500 guerrillas left 45 dead on a blackened battlefield today after failing to storm the bivouac of a U.S. armored cavalry force.

Attempting to smash into American positions just after midnight, the guerrillas were met by the heaviest guns in the U.S. arsenal—175mm cannon raining 200-pound shells on the attackers.

Military headquarters said eight men of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment were killed and 31 wounded in the savage one-hour battle about 40 miles east of Saigon.

Night Patrol

It was the only significant ground action reported in the day's communique although there was scattered and occasionally sharp fighting elsewhere. U.S. warplanes kept up their heavy raids on North Vietnam with 130 missions Sunday, including strikes on Hanoi's rail supply lines, the showpiece Thai Nguyen steel plant north of the capital and a surface-to-air missile site.

The American cavalrymen got a brief warning of impending attack when a small night patrol ran into a Communist recoilless rifle team. The U.S. patrol was evidently then surrounded by guerrillas heading for the main cavalry bivouac.

While the guerrillas of the hard-core 274th Regiment smashed at the U.S. line with recoilless rifles, .50 caliber machine guns and infantry assaults, the cavalry commander called for air and artillery support.

As American flareships lit the battlefield, a helicopter gunship strafed the Communists surrounding the isolated patrol. The 175mm cannon began to lay down a fire curtain barely 50 yards from the main American camp.

Within an hour the Viet Cong battalion pulled back into the darkness. The cavalry unit reported at daylight that 45 bodies were found and more had evidently been carried off in the darkness.

Rail Targets

In the air war, American pilots continued to concentrate on Hanoi's rail connections with Red China.

The Air Force communique noted that Hanoi's main northeast rail line has been heavily pounded on 12 of the past 18 days.

Although the weather was cloudy over much of North Vietnam Sunday, Air Force pilots from Thailand and Navy fliers from three aircraft carriers hit rail, road and river supply lines from north of Hanoi down to the border of South Vietnam.

Although one MIG21 was sighted, it made no effort to interfere with the U.S. raiders.

A spokesman noted that the cloudy weather of the past five days has been poor for aerial dogfights. The ceiling usually has been only about 3,000 feet and American warplanes are seldom below that level for very long.

The cloud cover has also hampered assessment of damage in recent raids, the spokesman said.

In Washington, the Pentagon announced that President Johnson had delayed Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's inspection trip to Vietnam because of the U.N. General Assembly meeting on the Arab-Israeli war. McNamara had been scheduled to take off for Saigon Sunday.

Pentagon Admits

Soviet Ship 'May' Have Been Strafed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department says American planes may have strafed a Soviet ship in North Vietnamese waters earlier this month.

Previously, the department denied the Soviet claim that U.S. planes hit the 3,358-ton Turkistan June 2 in the North Vietnamese port of Cam Pha. The Soviets said one man was killed and another was seriously wounded.

The Soviets protested the alleged attack, calling it "an act of banditry which may have far-reaching consequences." At the time, the Pentagon theorized North Vietnamese antiaircraft fire had hit the ship.

In a statement Sunday, the Pentagon said a new report from Gen. John D. Ryan, U. S. Air Force commander in the Pacific, brought forth information indicating U. S. Air Force F105 jets hit the Turkistan with cannon fire.

Just after the incident, the United States said two flights of F105s struck military targets at Cam Pha but that their firing did not occur near the ship. Ryan's report, however, disclosed there was a third flight of planes in the area, the Pentagon said.

The report said: "The target of the third flight was a railroad yard at Bac Giang, about 65 miles from Cam Pha. As previously reported, there was no strafing by the aircraft of the first two flights. However, it now appears that there was 20-millimeter suppressive fire against the North Vietnamese antiaircraft site at Cam Pha by aircraft of the third flight and that some of this fire may have struck the Turkistan."

The Pentagon said the United States was informing the Soviet Union about Ryan's report and added an investigation is continuing.

No Union Walkouts

Strike Deadline Passes, Rails Wait on Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The no-strike period in the dispute between railroads and six shopcraft unions ended early today but the deadline passed without any reported walkout by the brotherhoods.

The unions, after winning a victory on antistrike legislation in the House Thursday, announced they would forego any strike until Congress had a chance to work out a compromise on the bill.

Congressional leaders, rather than trying to hold colleagues in session over the weekend to seek a compromise, relied on the unions' pledge that a strike would not take place.

The Senate position is complicated by continuing debate on the censure case against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D - Conn., which is expected to run until midweek.

'Feels Strongly'

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said in an interview he would confer today with Sens. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., and Lister Hill, D-Ala., to chart a schedule of action.

Mansfield said the Senate "feels very strongly" about its version of the bill, which would extend the no-strike ban for 90 days and provide for a five-man federal board's determination of wage scales and other issues to take effect if there was no agreement between the disputants during that period. This was the proposal President Johnson submitted.

Mansfield said he will await conclusion of the Dodd censure mater before appointing Senate conferees to meet with a similar House group.

Under the Senate version, if no settlement were reached during the 90-day mediation period, the board's determination of the wage scales and other issues would take effect for a period extending not longer than Jan. 1, 1969.

The shopcraft unions oppose this as amounting to compulsory arbitration with a government-imposed settlement.

The House voted to keep the 90-day extension period and the mediation procedures but to eliminate the compulsory settlement.

Some Workers Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the International Association of Machinists reportedly walked off their jobs in the Southern Pacific Railroad yards at Roseville, Calif., as a no-strike period imposed on six shopcraft unions by Congress came to an end early today.

There was no immediate word how many workers were actually on strike.

India, China Rap Beatings At Embassies

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India and Red China continued a war of protests today, each demanding action against "ruffians" who harassed their diplomats. India threatened "appropriate countermeasures."

India told Peking it had 24 hours to remove mobs besieging the Indian Embassy in Peking.

China demanded a formal apology, compensation for damages and punishment for the Indians who stormed the Chinese Embassy in New Delhi Friday and beat nine Chinese who stood in line at their flagpole.

The harassment began last week when China accused two Indian diplomats of espionage and deported them from Peking. Leaving for Hong Kong, the two were beaten and taunted Thursday by Chinese Red Guards at Peking and Canton.

India Retaliates

India ordered two Chinese diplomats out of the country in retaliation, but the attack on the Chinese Embassy by several thousand Indians came before they could leave.

An Indian Foreign Ministry spokesman said the situation at the Indian Embassy in Peking was grim and the government was concerned for the safety of the Indian staff and families, crowded into the embassy after the Chinese ordered them to leave their homes.

The spokesman said the embassy has food for two or three days.

The Indian protest said the Peking government arranged the siege of the embassy and called it a negation of international law and diplomatic practices.

New Post Office To be Ready in Appleton by '69

Project Planner Inspects Sites, Makes Report

Appleton can look forward to having a new post office by the summer of 1969, The Post-Crescent learned Friday.

This is the time schedule set by local and U.S. Postal Department officials when planning of a new facility got underway in earnest earlier in the year.

U.S. Sen. Gaylord Nelson announced in November that Appleton's project had been approved and it would be a matter of securing an adequate site, with construction expedited after that.

A representative of the Postal Department's regional office at Chicago, who came here last month and discussed building needs (space, parking, etc.) and inspected possible sites, finalized his report this week for the Washington office, it was learned.

Made Several Trips

The project planner for the proposed new lease-type facility made several trips to Appleton before arriving at his final recommendations.

Because there were "loose ends" which needed clarification for his report, the federal official made further local contact when he was here last week representing the Postal Department at the annual convention of Wisconsin postmasters.

City Planner Walter Rasmussen said he was visited by a Minneapolis regional postal official last month. They discussed available sites and how they fit in with city planning.

Postmaster Frances Sumnicht indicated he has information the site study has been completed.

This would indicate a decision soon will be made on the new building location, and then postal officials will start negotiations.

Because they are of a confidential nature, the proposed site locations have not been disclosed. However, it is known the asking price for certain land and properties exceeded the postal department's estimates, prompting one official to remark that real estate is high in this area.

Walter Rugland, president of the Aid Association for Lutherans and chairman of the joint city-chamber post office committee, and Mayor George Buckley will go to Chicago July 16 to meet with officials of the Federal General Services Administration concerning future of the present post office at the southwest corner of Superior and Washington Streets.

The building, constructed in the 1930's lacks, space and modern facilities. Because of the huge mail volume handled locally, the postal department also leases other buildings.

Brillion to Consider Site of New Center

$500,000 Recreation Facility With Swimming Pool on Agenda of Special Tuesday Council Session

BRILLION — A site location for the proposed $500,000 community recreation center will be discussed at a special city council session at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A 15-member citizens' advisory committee recommended in November that the city was in need of a recreation facility which would include an indoor swimming pool, meeting rooms and a youth center.

The advisory committee, representing city organizations and service clubs, was set up in February 1966 by Mayor Clarence Wolf to meet requirements of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and acts solely in an advisory capacity.

Substantiate Need

Substantiating the need for a recreational facility, according to the group, are:

—Surveys they conducted which pinpoint meeting places used by local clubs and civic groups.

—Present and projected population figures.

—School board figures showing that 22 organizations have used the high school for meetings.

—Absence of adequate swimming facilities and recreation for youth, and a community survey conducted by the University of Wisconsin which showed citizens here want, and need, additional recreational facilities.

The committee has suggested a recreation center in the southeastern portion of the city because of anticipated residential growth in that direction.

Since the group's initial recommendation last November, as a result of an urban renewal plan proposed by Candeub, Fleissig and Associates, a midtown location for the recreation center is being discussed.

Suggest Location

The consulting firm has suggested the recreation facility be built behind the city hall in the business district. It then would be centrally located, and accessible to the two parochial and one public elementary schools.

According to comparisons, based on figures from similar community projects, the advisory group proposed that approximately $475,000 would be needed for a swimming pool, community center and equipment. Salary for a director of activities could add $15,000 annual cost to the project, they said.

Money to finance a recreation center could come from private solicitation as well as city funds, they advised. The city presently has $86,500 in a recreation center fund.

Wolf said, "Every citizen has a pocketbook interest in a public improvement. By using forethought, mistakes can be avoided and the cost becomes less . . . If citizens favor new measures and improvements, they should express their feelings so that a solution can be more readily effected. Active citizen interest and participation is essential for a progressive community."

The meeting also will discuss development of Tesch and Elm Streets.

Name Neenah Man Manager

Vandenberg to Head American Can Co. Horticultural Unit

NEENAH — Robert J. Vandenberg, a plant superintendent for American Can Co. in Neenah, has been named manager for a new American Can Co. plant to be built at Medina, Ohio.

The new plant will specialize in the production of sterile synthetic soil blocks for horticultural use and will be built on a 13-acre tract in Medina. One unit of the plant will produce a sterile growing medium which combines woodpulp with a synthetic resin. This material will be molding into soil blocks in an adjacent structure housing a manufacturing area, plant offices and a warehouse.

Vandenberg has been associated with American Can since his graduation from St. Norbert College in 1949 with a degree in chemistry. He is married and has four children.

Medina was selected as the site for the new plant because of it being in the center of a concentration of commercial greenhouse activity.

The soil blocks are specially treated to provide a sterile and highly-absorbent, but rot-resistant, base for starting seeds or cuttings.

Waupaca Bussing Costs $59,000

Transportation Average Hits $58.30 Per School Student

WAUPACA — Bus transportation costs for 1,021 Waupaca students during the 1966-67 school year were $58.30 per student or $59,515, according to school officials.

Total cost of operating the 17 school-owned buses and one contract bus was $59,526, or 21 cents per mile for the 283,353 miles driven.

School-owned buses were driven 269,320 miles for a cost of $56,437. This figure averages 20.95 cents per mile. The contract bus was driven 14,033 miles for $3,088 or 24.1 cents per mile.

Cost of operating the school-owned buses ranged from 39.2 cents per mile for one of the 1959 model large buses to 13.1 cents per mile for one of the small 13 passenger 1963 model buses.

Cost of operating the buses included gas, oil, tires, driver wages, insurance, supervision and depreciation.

WAUPACA — Four persons were injured in five single-car crashes and one car-truck accident which were investigated by Waupaca County police Friday night and early Saturday morning.

The only one of the injured still hospitalized is Elaine Klade, 18, Cedar St., Merrill, who suffered a fractured right arm, a concussion and cuts and abrasions when she lost control of the car she was driving near the intersection of U.S. 10 and County Trunk Q west of Waupaca about 1 a.m. Saturday. The car which was traveling east, went into the left ditch and rolled over. There was extensive damage to the car.

Miss Klade's father, Eugene, who was a passenger, escaped with minor abrasions and bruises.

Hospitalize Men

The car-truck crash which occurred about 5:30 p.m. Friday at the intersection of U.S. 10 and State 54, one mile west of Waupaca, sent two Green Bay men, and one from Minnesota, to Riverside Hospital.

Driver of the car, Douglas W. McGee. 23, Green Bay, suffered a fractured left knee cap, and Lee F. Zachman, 22, Green Bay, received lacerations on his forehead and back of head and shoulder injuries. About 1 a.m. Saturday a car driven by Eugene D. Sweetalla, 26, route 2, Waupaca, went out of control on State 22 and 54, one mile west of Waupaca and struck two guard rail posts and a mail box, causing more than $500 damages.

Four fence posts and a stop sign were broken, and there was damage of more than $1,500 to a car driven by Clifford E. Schuelke, 23, route 1, Bear Creek, in a one-car mishap at the intersection of County Trunk B and Butternut Road, one-half mile southeast of Manawa about 2 a.m., Saturday.

Schuelke, who reported the mishap to county police at 8 a.m., Saturday, said he was traveling north when a deer jumped onto the road, and he lost control of the car trying to avoid the animal.

Camp Interest Declines

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Too many eligible high school boys are passing up opportunities to enroll in the conservation work camps operated by the state Department of Public Welfare, a legislative committee has reported.

The report was written by a committee headed by Assemblyman Cletus Vanderperren, D-Brown County, and consisting of members of both legislative houses who visited dozens of state institutions of all kinds during the last two years.

The committee said it is "disturbed" by the fact that applications from high school boys for the summer conservation work have fallen off rapidly during the last several years, although the 600 places available have thus far been filled.

The camps, which started with considerable response five years ago, operate for two six-week periods, and are intended to attract young men interested in conservation and the outdoors.

The committee was warm in its praise of the camp idea, and the opportunities for conservation education extended through them.

But it said that more attractive work opportunities in the private sector are obviously reducing the number of such applications, and suggested the state might acknowledge such competition by providing a higher stipend to its camp workers. Pay has been $18 a week, and it will be $20 a week, effective this summer.

Recruit Leading Students

It noted also that the camps thus far have recruited leading high school students of the state, requiring the nominations of their high school principals. The committee speculated that if attendance continues to lag, the state might consider recruiting from "mildly delinquent" or "pre-delinquent" students.

The three camps now operating are near Neshkoro in Marquette County, at Manitowish Waters in Vilas County and at Lake Nancy in Bayfield County.

Asked to comment on the legislative committee's observations, Arthur P. Schmidt, a member of the Public Welfare Board, agreed that interest among boys has declined, but said if it continues his agency may propose a one shift program that would provide 12 weeks of work for interested youths.

He said also the Public Welfare Department would be doubtful of the wisdom of reducing the minimum age for eligibility below 16 years, as it is now set.

Municipal Sales Levy

Assembly Seeks Local Tax Bill for School Aid

MADISON (AP) — Municipalities in financial crisis could levy a local sales tax of up to one per cent under a bill introduced Friday in the Assembly.

Assembly speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, said the measure he sponsored was "an alternate to direct school aids."

Democrats Battled

Democrats have battled to pass a bill increasing state assistance to schools by $30 million spread over two years. Republicans have resisted because they argue state taxes would have to be hiked to meet the increase.

Froehlich's bill got a 7-3 authorization for introduction Friday by the Assembly Rules Committee. The three dissenters were the committee's Democratic members.

Ease Taxes

Localities now have to rely almost entirely for revenue on the property tax.

The bill would offer a new option allowing a municipality to adopt the retail sales tax for educational expenditures only on items already included under the present three per cent state sales levy.

The rates allowed under terms of the bill would be either one-half of one per cent or one per cent. The tax would be collected by the state and returned to the municipalities.

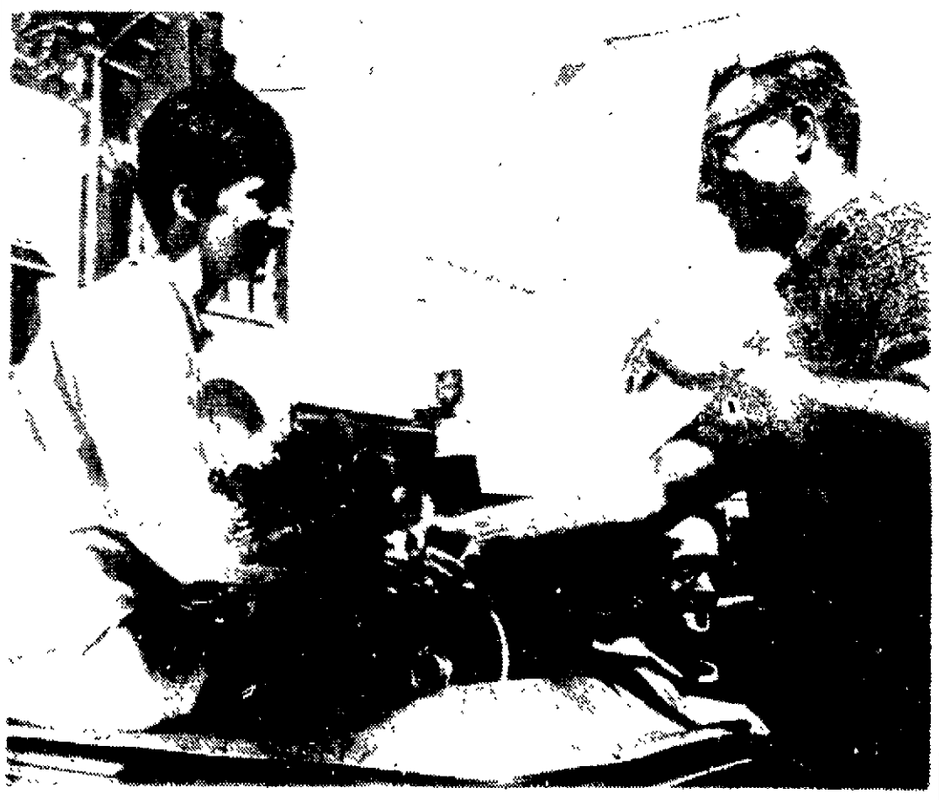
Waupaca Pedestrian Hit Crossing Street; Suffers Bruised Leg

WAUPACA — Mrs. Clarence Koehler, route 3, suffered a bruised left leg about 8:30 p.m. Friday when she was struck by a car while walking across Main Street.

Mrs. Koehler was taken to Riverside Hospital by her husband where she was examined and released.

The car involved in the mishap was driven by John D. Peterson, 17, route 4. According to Waupaca police, Peterson was making a left turn from Union Street onto Main Street.

It was raining and there was heavy traffic at the time of the mishap, police said.



Weyauwega's Ann Hutchinson, who was elected governor of Badger Girls' State, received a certificate of honor from Frank Zaboj, high school principal, during a welcome home celebration Saturday afternoon. Kerry Lewin, Fremont, who won an assemblyman post, was also honored. A police escort met their car caravan near the Weyauwega city limits, and the high school band serenaded the two girls in front of city hall. (Paschke Photo)

Natural Gas Firms Vying Near Sherwood

Kaukauna Firm Authorized in Harrison; Chilton Utility Applies to State PSC

SHERWOOD — Two natural gas utilities appear to be vying to service this community of 350 people and the High Cliff Park beach area west of here.

The Wisconsin Gas Co. of Kaukauna has been authorized since September, 1963, to service the Town of Harrison, Calumet County, where these communities are located. But recently the Wisconsin Public Service Corp., of Milwaukee, a Chilton based firm, has applied for authorization from the state Public Service Commission to service the Sherwood area.

Earlier this year, Town of Harrison officials passed an ordinance allowing the Chilton company to extend its lines into the township, after High Cliff Inc. announced plans for construction of a $6 million recreation village development to begin in 1970.

Wisconsin statutes, however, state that no two public utilities may offer the same service in the same municipality unless authorization is granted by the state Public Service Commission.

Madison Hearing

Accordingly the Chilton company has sought authorization in a hearing at Madison, the final session of which is scheduled for June 26.

Alois Thiel, co-owner of the company, Thiel's Milk Products, Inc., about five miles south of Kaukauna, denied Friday that his firm has a contract with the utility to furnish natural gas. Thiel said he'd been told that the gas lines would come as far as his plant "but it may be five years before I hook on." Thiel said representatives of the Kaukauna utility had sought to have him sign contracts which he refused on the basis of conversion costs. When his present system is no longer operable he would switch to natural gas, he said.

The Kaukauna firm says it plans only to go as far as the State 114-55 and County Trunk B intersection in Sherwood if it receives the franchise. Company officials said the utility has no plans to connect its gas line near from Thiel's plant.

Representatives of the Chilton company said if the Public Service Commission granted the franchise, they planned to tap into their lines on State 57 near Hilbert and proceed west along County Trunk B through St. John.

In the last few weeks, however, the Kaukauna utility has been extending its pipelines four miles south along County Trunk N to State 114 and four miles east on State 114 to State 55, about a miles from Sherwood. Presently, the Darboy area is the company's primary interest in the Town of Harrison.

Representatives of the Chilton utility said if they are granted authorization to service the Sherwood-High Cliff area, they will extend their lines south along State 55 to Stockbridge.

Service Stockbridge

If authorization is refused, the Chilton utility still plans to service the Stockbridge area by extending its pipeline east along County Trunk E.

Recent ordinances have been passed by the Village and Town of Stockbridge allowing the Chilton utility to enter.

Incorporation procedures are now being planned for the Sherwood-High Cliff area, which is also seeking municipal sewage and water facilities. A number of people favoring natural gas service, feel it should be delayed until water and sewage pipes are installed, thus saving on duplicate digging and installation costs.

Surveys Affirm Newspaper Still Prime Medium

Television Claims About Advertising, News Countered

Two recent surveys have affirmed that people turn first to their newspapers for news and buying information.

The latest Newsprint Information ommittee-financed research study has produced solid information naming newspapers the prime medium, countering television industry claims which have plagued newspapers in recent years.

These results put new perspective on findings of the widely-promoted Roper survey concerning television as a news medium.

Dr. Leo Bogart, executive vice president of the Bureau of Advertising, who counseled on the project, said:

Get News from Paper

"Our new study finds that on any given day four out of five people get news from the newspaper. With considerable overlapping, three out of five get news from television, and over half from radio.

"We find in our study that people consider television the best medium for action news in Vietnam or Washington. But when we take full range of specific information items in all four media, people select newspapers as the best source, far and away ahead of television."

In a similar study public advertising tastes were sampled.

Look for Ads

Two out of three people look forward to seeing the ads in their newspaper. Only one out of four says he looks forward to TV and radio commercials.

This study of the Opinion Research Corporation is entitled, "When People Want to Know."

Other findings revealed in the study were:

In three cases out of five, newspapers are ranked as the best way to find out what's really happening. Results show it is the one medium people turn to for information on their whole range of interests.

No. 1 Reference

The greater a person's interest in advertising information — such as data on something he wants to buy — the more likely he is to turn to print, with the newspaper as his No. 1 reference.

Interest level for ads is clearly three-quarters as high as for editorial information.

Conservative Principles

Clintonville Lutherans Conduct First Service

CLINTONVILLE — A total of 74 persons attended the first service at 10:45 a.m. Sunday of the newly-formed St. Paul Lutheran Church conducted at the Veterans Memorial Building. The Rev. W. Werling, route 1, Shawano, is serving the congregation as pastor. Mrs. Earl Paape is organist.

Temporary officers elected by the voters include Eugene Dexter, president; Armin Dieck, secretary; Lee Laude, treasurer; and Donald Sawall, Elmer List and Walter Essman, elders.

Attend Convention

The Rev. Mr. Werling and Dexter will attend the Evangelical Lutheran Synod convention at Bethany Lutheran College, Mankato, Minn., Tuesday through Sunday.

A representative of the new congregation explained the views of the group.

"St. Paul's is a conservative Lutheran congregation which holds to the historical beliefs of Lutheranism.

"Our membership is concerned that our children be taught clear-speaking Bible truths and Christian morals; that they be taught to trust in the wisdom of Holy Scripture for guidance in Christian living, that they be taught that the Bible is completely, not partly, the Word of God, and that as such it is wholly true and trustworthy.

Faith by Hearing

"Faith comes by hearing, and hearing by the Word of God. We cannot separate God from His Word, or Christ from His Gospel, and therefore, we look to that sacred Word as completely reliable and as our infallible authority in all things. It is in the Bible that we learn of our Lord and Savior and of salvation through Him.

"It is the intent of St. Paul's to affiliate with a Lutheran synod which is faithful to its constitution and, especially, to the Word of God, and which speaks accordingly through its printed materials, its seminaries, and through its schools of higher education."

Sunday worship services will be conducted at 10:45 a.m. at the Veterans Memorial Building.

Reporter Looks, Wanders

BY ALICE HUCK
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

There's a swamp across the road, a lake in front of the house, a teen-age dance going on just a mile away, and suddenly at 12:15 a.m., there's a cry in the night, "... Please help me!"

The dog barks, the cry comes once more. The moon is full. You can see its light bouncing along light ripples that do not indicate a boat in the water, or even a swimmer.

You turn on the yard light which diminishes the moonlight, but shows no movement on the road. Suddenly, there is no sound.

Silently Open Door

You put on a robe, chase the dog into the bedroom, and close the door so you can hear something beside the owls, silently open the porch door and take a few steps onto the sidewalk.

But all is quiet, except for the owls.

Is there someone in the water in trouble? Is there a teen-ager parked in a car down the road? Did someone slide into the swamp? One more sound, and you would have called the police.

But you've already called them once today about a speeding teen-ager in a black car who has been gunning his car on hills on this north shore Chain O' Lakes, Waupaca, road for two days.

Did you dream the cry? Did the dog dream the cry. Should you call the police? Nope, it's probably another kid calling "Wolf." It happens every summer.

But this morning before you leave for work at 6:30 a.m. you take another look at the lake, walk over the swamp, check the gravel pit where the more amorous teens park after the dance ... and hope another reporter doesn't send a story across your desk indicating there really was a "cry for help."

The Use of State Aircraft

A number of state agencies in past years have made what appeared to them justifiable proposals to the legislature for authorization to spend state funds for the purchase of airplanes. It is relatively easy to demonstrate, it seems to us, the economy and efficiency dividends from the use of aircraft by departments that have attained the size of some of our major state agencies, such as the State Welfare Department, the Highway Commission, the higher education system, the Motor Vehicle Department, or the Conservation Department. A few years ago the legislature had a proposal from the Department of Administration, backed by a careful study, supporting the idea of a pool of aircraft that would be assigned to agencies even as auto fleets are maintained by some governmental agencies and private corporations for the transportation of personnel.

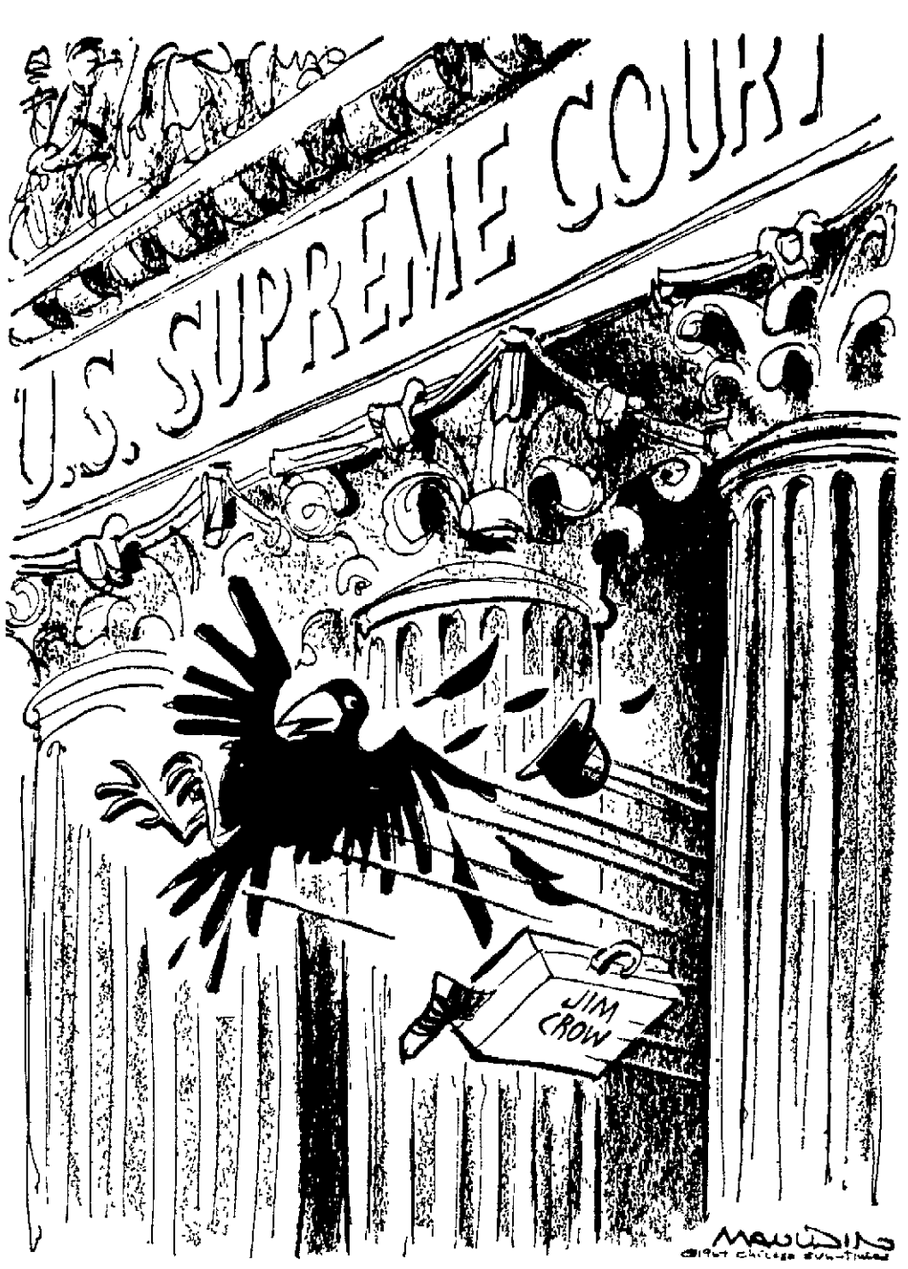
But the legislature has balked. And one of the reasons for its reserve may be illustrated by the disclosure that the Conservation Department has been using its own airplanes for what are transparently political purposes.

Chairman James Smaby of the Conservation Commission has distributed a complaining press release about the criticism directed at his agency for its decision to transport several prominent politicians to the Wisconsin Conservation Congress recently held at Green Bay. The Congress is an advisory arm of the commission. In the fight about integrating the organization of conservation programs of the state government, it has also been disclosed to be a useful and eager political auxiliary.

Mr. Smaby asserts that it is the policy of his department to offer air transportation to "any individual important to the conduct of state conservation business." Such a practice saves time and money "for busy people who volunteer their services." It makes available to the Conservation Department the advice of a person "who would otherwise never be able to give conservation the benefit of his intelligence," he went on.

The implication here is that there is a formal policy on the use of state-owned aircraft for the convenience of private persons, including elected public officials. But to our knowledge there has been no such formal policy. Mr. Smaby is contriving arguments after the event, in his concern about hostile reaction in the legislature to the findings on his agency's flight logs.

But if this is truly the practice and policy of his department, he can demonstrate it more convincingly by providing transportation also to some of those persons who might like it, but who happen to disagree with his position on some current legislative issues — such as the Kellett reorganization bill. Indeed, nothing could have shown the objectivity of the department more effectively than a bid to a legislative backer of that measure to come in the same airplane to Green Bay to make a speech as a matter of fair program balance.



"Man, That's the Fanciest Place I Ever Got Throwed Out of."

What Makes a Dope Addict?

For almost the first time there is a hopeful statistic regarding narcotics addiction.

Experts in the field who approach the problem from various angles have been generally discouraged because of the gradual increase in addicts and the almost complete failure to find cures. The high percentage of addicts who seek help return to drugs after treatment. And there is also a high percentage who do not want to be cured in the first place. The number of addicts, particularly in the big cities and particularly in poverty areas, continues to rise.

But recent studies by the Federal Bureau of Narcotics show that there has been a steady decline in the last 10 years of narcotics addiction among Negroes. Not only the percentage of new Negro addicts has gone down but the number as well.

In 1956 57.8 per cent of new addicts were Negroes. In 1965 only 40.2 per cent were Negroes and the number has dropped from 5,395 to 2,419. The decline in the last 10 years has been consistent.

The reasons are not obvious. A minister in Harlem who has been working with a group trying to control addiction in that area points out that Negroes "have become very knowledgeable about what narcotics can do. In places like Harlem, Negroes have been living among addicts for 25 years. Too many of the Negroes have had brothers and friends who have died or been made useless by narcotics. There is no status among Negroes any more in being an addict."

New York City's narcotics coordinator suggests that "the campaign for civil rights has become a substitute. For the Negro, the issue of civil rights has a sort of quasi-religious quality and there is no question that this sort of fervor has been used effectively against addiction." Another worker in the field commended the civil rights movement and thought the decline "a reflection of the fact that Negro communities are maturing." Undoubtedly of importance also has been the activity in Negro communities in the larger cities against addiction and the fact that the various drives for civil rights and black power has raised hope for the future among Negroes.

But while the rate among Negroes has declined, it has grown among Puerto Ricans from only 7.8 per cent in 1956 to almost twice that in 1965. There are many more Puerto Ricans in the country of course and this is one cause for the increase. But also important may be the factors of lack of hope among Puerto Ricans for the future and the fact that they have not lived with the problem long enough to see the frightening results.

One observer suggested that "in view of the increase of addiction among whites . . . they have been suffering a cultural deprivation." Certainly lack of information about the dangers of addiction, the feeling of status among peer groups and the lack of goals or confidence have been influential in increased addiction, particularly among white youth. The gap between youth and their elders in this decade and the lack of trust should not be discounted either.

The narcotics addict seeks escape, prestige and an acceptance that is denied him. Since cures are so hard to find, prevention is the most important factor in cutting down on narcotics addiction. Those working in the field and parents and educators in general now at least have the declining statistics among Negroes and the probable reasons for the decline to use in their efforts to prevent an increase in new addicts.

Old Wives' Tales Examined

Old wives' tales for years warned pregnant women of the dire effects various activities could have upon their unborn children. Birthmarks were supposed to be caused by eating too many strawberries, crossed eyes by a scare and similar nonsense.

But now a couple of scientists have indicated through an experiment that there may be more relation between some prenatal influences and later reactions than previously believed.

A psychologist and educator at Northern Illinois University experimented with eggs, chicks and sound. One group of eggs was exposed for six days before hatching to a series of continuous one second beeps of sound at a 200 cycles per second frequency. A control group of eggs remained in silence for the six days. When the chicks were hatched they were placed on a large round table with mounted speakers opposite each other. The speakers alternated emitting beeps at the 200 cycle frequency and at a 2000 cycle frequency. The chicks from the control group were moderately attracted to both speakers but had no preference. But the chicks in the experimental group showed far greater preference for the speaker sending out the same frequency as that before they were hatched.

The scientists went further and mounted the speakers on a pull toy resembling a chicken since chicks are generally attracted to such models and will follow them. The experimental chicks followed the silent speaker for a five second average, the unfamiliar speaker for as much as ten seconds but they clamored after the familiar one for 15 seconds. Some even tried to climb aboard.

Whether or not this experiment indicates real imprinting in which subsequent behavior is permanently influenced by early, even prenatal, experience has not been determined.

So maybe while pregnant women can eat all the strawberries they want, it begins to appear that they should be careful what they say.

Looking Backward

Weather, Editors, Norwegians

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for June 15, 1867.

North-Western Wisconsin has been most thoroughly drenched with heavy rainfall and storms during the past fortnight. None of the crops look as well in that direction as in North-Eastern Wisconsin.

About 150 Wisconsin editors, accompanied by state officers, made an excursion to the Falls of St. Anthony the present week. It was a succession of feasts and intellectual treats.

The tide of Norwegian emigration to the western and north-western portion of our state appears to increase instead of diminish. The Norwegians are a hardy race, and though individually they bring little money into the country, they will by their industrious and frugal habits add largely to the wealth of the country within a short period of time.

Recent Greek Visitor Is Hopeful Over Coup

Editor, Post-Crescent.

Having just returned from a brief visit to Greece, it has been very interesting to note the editorial reactions of the American press and especially that in the Saturday Post-Crescent. Impressions gained as a tourist are necessarily limited and may well be misleading, however, it remains that our visit to Greece led to a different conclusion regarding the recent military coup. Rather than condem this as solely an act of aggression, removing the democratic process and rights in the very land of their birth, we choose to adopt a policy of "wait and see," hoping that this government represents a necessary stop-gap measure which will ultimately help to restore orderly democratic process. A few words will illustrate the background for this attitude.

Talking to business executives, enterprising young men, workers and surprisingly well-informed guides and men taxi drivers, we found almost to a man the deep conviction that this was necessary and is for the good of Greece "This is heavenly " said one man "We've had nothing but strikes, demonstrations, rising prices and increasing government corruption " It was done for one purpose, to "prevent the communist takeover " The Greek people seem to recognize Communism as a foreign influence dedicated to its own purpose and uphold the United States as the protector of freedom, especially President Truman who "saved Greece from the Communists" during the time of the Marshall Plan Huge housing developments for refugees, primarily from Yugoslavia and the Balkan States, attest to the fact that Greece is a haven from Communism.

We saw immediate evidence of efforts by the military government to improve economic conditions. Badly needed rural electrification and water projects were undertaken and within two weeks of the coup, a number of small towns had been supplied with these needs by army engineer units. Government allowances to officials had been sharply cut, prices stabilized and negotiations begun for increasing wages.

Knowing that near chaos existed in Greece and the strong possibility of a communist victory (due to the personal popularity of Papandreous) in the coming election, we can better understand that our diplomatic sympathy might well have been with the coup. However, we cannot wholeheartedly support the actions of these men The smooth operation of the bloodless and sweeping coup denotes tremendous organizational power History tells of the great dangers inherent in power and all too often of its misuse The evidence at present, at least in the attitude of those to whom we spoke, is that this was necessary and good for Greece. The people are in no hurry for an election and want a period of stability, before one is called It remains to be seen if the apparent benevolent dictatorship can maintain its character and return to the Greek people a workable democracy which is consistant with the noble traditions of a proud and freedom loving people.

No Time to Share in All Those Gifts

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Recently Governor Knowles accepted two gifts, one a wine cellar stocked with wine and the other a boat and motor to cruise up and down in front of the executive mansion.

In accepting these gifts the governor said that he was accepting them in behalf of the people of Wisconsin and they belong to the citizens of Wisconsin. The taxpayers of Wisconsin recently spent thousands of dollars to fix up the mansion for the governor and his wife and at the time of this large expenditure we were told this was being done so the citizens of our state would have a nice place to show their friends. Now we find the mansion is open to the taxpayers from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. one day a month and if this is figured out by the year, it means you have 24 hours a year to drink your wine, use your boat and visit your half-million dollar home on the lake.

I for one would like to suggest that the governor not accept any more gifts in my name, I just cannot afford to drive to Madison for that short a time.

World's Biggest Salami Too Much For Burglars

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Corrado Viola had one burning ambition — to make the world's biggest salami

And when he turned out a monster sausage five feet long and weighing nearly 100 pounds, he thought he'd probably succeeded

Viola, 37, a chef in an Italian restaurant in Johannesburg, spent two days making his salami. He had to use a plastic skin because he couldn't find an orthodox casing big enough

Viola proudly hung it from the ceiling of the restaurant, adorned with red, green and white ribbons of the Italian national colors

Maitre d'hotel Piero said: "Only in Bologne in Italy do they make such big salamis And if ours is not the biggest one ever made, it is so close to it that it doesn't matter."

Thieves who broke into the restaurant were apparently daunted by its size. They left Viola's masterpiece alone and stole a smaller, 20-pound version.

Democratic Meeting Seems to Indicate Party Needs Unity

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — There may be some reflective Democratic politicians in Wisconsin today who are wondering what purpose is served by their off-year delegate conventions, as they contemplate the revealingly inconclusive consequences of their rally at La Crosse a week ago.

Wyngaard

For what it is worth, the record of delegate voting at the convention showed that very nearly half of the working politicians in the party voted no confidence, in effect, in the leadership of President Johnson with respect to the war in Vietnam.

Perhaps the results could have been even more unfavorable, in a publicity sense. A shift of a small handful of the delegates might have brought a literal repudiation of the national administration on what is surely the most vital issue in the country today in the view of most citizens — and Wisconsin voters.

Even more contradictory is the relation of Sen. Nelson, the most important personality in the Wisconsin party just now because he confronts the judgment of the electorate next year, to the Democratic organization as it is personified in this year's convention delegates. All accounts indicated that Nelson retains his personal popularity, which always was considerable. He was cheered in a way that should have been gratifying to him, considering his message

SPURNED BY DELEGATES

But then those delegates spurned, in effect, Nelson's earnest and solemn and obviously deliberate assertion that the country should reduce its military effort in Asia, and if possible, eliminate it altogether.

But the observer of such events must remind himself that this was a very small fraction of the people of Wisconsin speaking at LaCrosse, and, indeed, a painfully small fraction of the organization Democrats of the state. The attendance was one of the lightest in years. Can that be attributed to the fact that Democrats, like others, prefer to spend their summer weekends with their families in recreational activities? Or does it mean that there is a general feeling of discouragement among the loyalists?

The latter possibility cannot be entirely dismissed, since the Republicans a little earlier, on an equally pleasant weekend, drew nearly three times as many of their campaign troops to their rally at Eau Claire, which is probably less accessible to most of the residents of Wisconsin.

STORY OF GLOOM

Your reporter has taken no polls, and in fact, has a high degree of skepticism about the polling device in politics. Yet the casual encounters with typical Democrats in Madison and elsewhere in Wisconsin, plus the private comments of professional Democratic politicians, tell a story of gloom within the party that only a few years ago was the epitome of high spirits and confidence. Who could have imagined that a President who swept Wisconsin with such a thunderous deluge of approving votes only two and one-half years ago would barely miss denunciation from his Wisconsin party in the summer of 1967?

As the convinced Democratic liberal surveys the immediate future and the problems of fighting the Republicans in 1968, he sees only trouble in both national and state campaigns.

At Madison, Gov. Warren Knowles, the best recent vote-getter among leading Republican candidates, shows no lign of lessened public support. Most estimates are that he has increased his backing since his convincing re-election of last year. Even if governor again, as some Democratic enemies with somewhat too much candor are hoping, the opposition party faces the prospect of a bruising, costly and enervating fight for the control of the party machinery through the capture of its gubernatorial nomination.

For the national ticket, the Democratic backing in Wisconsin will be equivocal at best, according to the clear showing of the convention proceedings, unless President Johnson retires, which nobody really expects, or unless there is somehow fashioned a truce in Asia, which is equally improbable, as most of the politicians in both parties see it.

Experience Is Not Always Best Teacher

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

When a famous German general, long ago, heard one of his staff officers venture the sententious remark that "Experience is the best teacher," the general snorted: "Nonsense — my mule has been through 10 campaigns with me, but he knows no more now than he did before the first one!"

Harris

Experience can be a very bad teacher, indeed, or no teacher at all. It is like the silly phrase, "Practice makes perfect." In most cases, practice merely confirms us in our errors, and the longer we do someting the wrong way—that is, without enlightenment and instruction — the more fixed we become in our folly.

To take a trivial example in my own case: I begain playing tennis as a boy, and had many years of experience. I also practiced incessantly. But because I did not understand the basic principles of the game, the more experience I had, and the more practice I took, the more deeply I fell into the grip of bad form and losing habits.

It finally became necessary for me to take lessons if my game was to improve at all — and most of the lessons were spent in unlearning everything that "experience" and "practice" had taught me!

This, of course, made it twice as hard for me to become a truly proficient player. With a beginner, the coach merely instills good habits and proper form; but with me it was necessary first to break the deeply ingrained bad habits of years and reduce me to the rank of ignorance before I could learn to rebuild my game the right way.

Young people today are fond of believing that "experience" in and by itself is a good thing, and that we automatically learn the right after we have experienced the wrong or the dubious. But older people know—through painful examination of their own lives — that this is not usually the case.

Many people go from one bad experience to another, from one kind of mistake to a different kind, learning perhaps to avoid the kind they made in the past, but having no rational guideline to prevent them from making other, and more disastrous, mistakes in the future. The millions of multiple marriages in American society are tragic proof of this failure to profit from mere "experience."

Of course, we cannot learn without "living." But "living" means not only inviting new sensations and experiences; it means also studying, analyzing, generalizing, anticipating, and judging from mankind's accumulated wisdom of the past. Otherwise, our experiences do us no more good than they did the general's mule.

U.N. Debate Affects Link of U.S., Soviets

Whether Nations Will be More Distant, Closer Now Unsure

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before the end of the Israeli-Egyptian war debate, opening today in the U.N. General Assembly, the United States and the Soviet Union may get along better or worse. It's that unpredictable.

But cynicism is part of the bloodstream of the United Nations which, at the time of its creation in 1945, looked like a holy of holies, or so the world hoped then.

The Soviets, who promised the Arabs their support if they got into war with Israel, did nothing except piously protest violence when the war came and the Israelis demolished the Egyptians. This cost the Soviets dearly in Arab confidence.

Ask Condemnation

So what they did when the quick war ended was obvious: They set out to recapture Arab goodwill by asking the U.N. Security Council to condemn Israel as an aggressor and demand it withdraw from the Arab land it seized.

The Soviets lost on this maneuver in the council when a majority of the 15 members, including the United States, refused to go along. So then Moscow asked the full Assembly to do what the council refused to do.

This was a switch. In 1961, when India overran the Portuguese enclave of Goa-Damao-Diu on the southwest coast of India, territory Portugal had held since the 16th century, the United States, Britain and France asked the Security Council to condemn India's aggression and demand it withdraw.

Soviet Opposition

The Soviets, who had praised the Indian attack, vetoed this proposal. Egypt also opposed it.

In 1956, when Moscow sent its army into Hungary to crush the anti-Communist revolt there, the United States asked the Security Council, with the support of 10 other members, to condemn the action and demand Soviet withdrawal. Moscow vetoed this.

This time, in the General Assembly, the Soviets may try to fry a lot of fish. Posing as friend of the Arabs, it can seek to make the United States look pro-Israel and anti-Arab, which the Arabs think it is anyway.

For the Soviets this would be a worthwhile project if the result froze the United States out of the Middle East, which doesn't seem likely, and made itself the dominant force.

But the unpredictables in all this are endless.

Avoid Angering U. S.

Soviet-American relations have been improving, and the Soviets showed reason and restraint when the Mideast war broke out. It's possible that, while trying to endear themselves to the Arabs all over again by castigating Israel, they will try to avoid anything that would anger the United States.

It seems likely that no matter what the General Assembly says about the Israeli-Arab war it will have little effect on a Mideast setlement.

For instance, suppose the Assembly says Israel and the Arabs ought to get together and work out a settlement. Or suppose it condemns Israel and tells it to withdraw and return to the Arabs the land seized in the war.

Before the Assembly could even meet to discuss such problems the Egyptian ambassador to the United Nations, Mohamed El Kony, ruled out Sunday any Israeli-Arab negotiations.

Consent Needed

He said, "By all means we are going to get our territory back, whatever the cost." Further, he said, even if President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, who is in New York for the debate, had a summit meeting they "couldn't arrange anything without our consent."

And the Israeli Foreign Minister, Abba Eban, who is also in New York, said Sunday there would be no return to pre-war boundaries "even if the General Assembly votes 121 to 1 in favor of it." He said the Arabs would have to negotiate with Israel about getting their real estate back.

One of the most fascinating parts of the debate will be the American role. It's a good guess the United States will at least start out on a soft line, perhaps letting Israel set off the oratorical fireworks, to avoid any unnecessary showdowns.

Detroit Lawmen Want Raises

Threats Return Police To Job After Sick-Call

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's 4,700-man police force, faced with a court order banning work stoppages and threatened with massive suspensions by Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, began returning to normal work shifts today, but the end of a feud with the city administration over a pay raise was not in sight.

The fight for an average annual pay hike of $1,665, led by the Detroit Police Officers Association, goes before a state labor mediation board today.

The protest began eight days ago when officers on the Motor Traffic Patrol began writing fewer tickets than normal, and massive sick calls, termed the "blue flu" by officers, began when 42 motor patrolmen were ordered to foot patrols.

449 Off

However, Police Commissioner Ray Girardin said only 41 men called in sick on the morning shift Sunday compared with 131 on the same shift Saturday. The sick call list had reached 449 by late Saturday.

Girardin ordered men back to normal eight-hour work shifts Sunday, ending no-furlough, 12-hour shifts ordered after the sick calls began.

"The response of the men has been highly gratifying," said Girardin, who promised Saturday to try and get more pay for his men through state or federal aid.

However, Winston Livingston, police association attorney, said, "I don't feel it's over. I feel it has just begun."

City Deficit

Cavanagh, who was in Honolulu Sunday to preside over the U. S. Conference of Mayors, which he heads, had refused to grant a police pay raise in the 1967-67 fiscal budget because of a $13 million city deficit.

Saturday, before leaving for Hawaii, he had said he would begin suspending officers who called in sick call as a means of protest.

By Sunday, 190 officers had been suspended for various forms of insubordination.

A restraining order against a work stoppage, issued Thursday, goes to a show cause hearing Tuesday before Wayne County — Detroit — Circuit Judge Blair Moody.

Livingston said the court order had forced the men back to work.

walked slowly to the rostrum of the assembly to start a critical phase of this special emergency session. He began by excoriating American policy with regard to Vietnam, Cuba, the Congo and other areas. He said the situation in the Middle East could lead to thermonuclear war.

"No nation wants war," Kosygin said. "Nobody doubts that if a new world war started, it would inevitably be a nuclear one."

The Soviet leader said: "It should be taken into account that the continuing war in this area (Vietnam) is fraught with the terrible danger of escalating into a major military clash between the powers... This is precisely what the present foreign policy of the United States of American is fraught with."

Praise for U.N.

Kosygin praised the U.N. Security Council for achieving a cease-fire in the Middle East but added it did not discharge its whole responsibility since Israeli troops still occupied Arab territory.

"As long as Israeli troops continue to occupy territories seized by them and urgent measures are not taken to eliminate the consequences of aggression, a military conflict can flare up at any moment," Kosygin said. "That is why the Soviet Union took the initiative to convene an urgent meeting of the members of the United Nations General Assembly."

Kosygin avoided committing himself for the time being on Johnson's proposals. Asked on his arrival whether he agreed with Johnson, Kosygin said, "It's hard to say at this moment." On the President's five points, he advised questioners to wait for the Soviet statement he was about to deliver to the assembly.

Johnson said his "five great principles of peace" are:

—"The first and greatest principle is that every nation in the area has a fundamental right to live and to have this right respected by its neighbors."

Before the war began two weeks ago Arab leaders spoke of destroying Israel, and the Arab states generally have refused to admit Israel's right to exist since it came into being in 1948.

—"The nations of the Middle East must at least address themselves to the plight of those who have been displaced by wars." Arab refugees from past conflicts and the latest one are estimated to total more than one million people, with the largest concentration in Jordan.

—"Maritime rights must be respected." The critical issue between Israel and Egypt befoae the recent fighting started was Egypt's closure to Israeli shipping of the Straits of Tiran, the gateway to the Gulf of Aqaba and Israel's southern port of Elath.

Danger of Arms Race

—"This last conflict has demonstrated the danger of the Middle Eastern arms race of the last 12 years," The Soviet Union began putting arms into the Middle East in the mid-1950s. The Western powers, including the United States, also have supplied military equipment to various states there. The Soviet investment has been estimated by Western officials at more than $1 billion in Egypt and at least that much more in other Arab nations.

—"The crisis underlines the critical importance of respect for political independence and territorial integrity of all the states in the area." Since the birth of Israel in 1948, the President said, boundaries have been mainly truce lines. He argued that secure borders and an end to terror attacks by one nation against another are basic requirements for peace."

NBC to Air Critique of Garrison Case

Attorney Readying Assassination Case Protests 'Attack'

NEW YOR K (AP) — A spokesman for the National Broadcasting Co.—in the face of objections by New Orleans Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison—says the network definitely will telecast tonight a program criticizing aspects of Garrison's investigation of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

William R. McAndrew, president of NBC News, also said Sunday the network expected Garrison to demand equal time and the network was "prepared for it."

The program, entitled "The JFK Conspiracy—the Case of Jim Garrison," is scheduled for 8 to 9 p.m. EDT.

'Destroy Case'

Garrison has said the actions of NBC make him believe it has a "calculated objective" of destroying his case against Clay L. Shaw in Garrison's investigation of the assassination.

Garrison has obtained an indictment charging Shaw, a retired New Orleans businessman, with conspiracy to murder in the death of Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

Garrison sent a six-page letter of complaint to Rosel H. Hyde, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission. It said NBC "has been so aggressive in attacking the state of Louisiana's case against Shaw prior to trial as to have gone far beyond the pretense of merely gathering and disseminating news."

Garrison asked that NBC not be allowed "to use the public airways to accomplish such mean ends."

A spokesman for the FCC said in Washington Sunday that Garrison's letter had not been received.

In any event, the spokesman said, the commission is prohibited by law from determining the content of television programs.

He said Garrison could demand network time to respond to the program under the so-called fairness doctrine. The commission then would determine whether Garrison should be given the time.

Jim Bishop's Day With LBJ

White House Morning Hours Include Diverse Activities

CHAPTER TWO

9:00 a.m.

Lem Johns, in charge of the White House Secret Service detail, has an office in the East Wing. He sits in Room 200, containing three desks, and his job is to anticipate the unanticipated.

The other men at the desks, for whom there is a receptionist in an outer office, Miss Kennedy, are Bob Taylor, deputy agent in charge , and Clint Hill, the assistant agent in charge.

The memory of John F. Kennedy's assassination may dim slightly in the rest of the world, but it remains sharp here. When procedure is discussed, one hears "before Dallas" and "after Dallas." And yet no Secret Service agent wants to discuss the event, because the loss was theirs. It is a highly personal thing. Chief James Rowley, gray and competent and quiet, says, "I live with Dallas every day. All of us do."

Hour by hour events in the daily life of a President of the United States are detailed from firsthand knowledge by distinguished author-reporter Jim Bishop Mr Bishop spent 11 days with President Lyndon B. Johnson and his family, from L.B.J.'s rising at 7 a.m. until lights were out at midnight, and shared Presidential experiences. His vivid account of activities in a typical 17-hour Presidential day is being published exclusively in this area in The Post-Crescent.

A Fortress

The White House is a sort of fortress protecting the President of the United States and, to keep it so, Johns and his men must know every servant, every clerk and executive, every guest, every reporter, every dlivery boy who gets beyond the front gate The President, for example, may not walk through the ground floor of his own mansion while tourists are in it from 10 a.m. to noon.

Since Dallas, the unit has been augmented both in manpower and sources of information. The force had 600 men; it is now more than 900. There are 225 uniformed men in the White House police force, and they too are part of the Secret Service.

Outside the east gate, citizens three abreast wait in line for a tour of the White House They will wait until 10 a.m., when the line will start through the public rooms of the ground floor and first floor. They will listen to a taped voice tell the story of the Executive Mansion, and some of the notable events which occurred in each of the rooms.

Reporters Waiting

In the West Wing, some correspondents for press and TV-radio sit in the big reception hall reading morning newspapers Outside a few television cameras are already set up, ready to record image and voice of presidential visitors as they leave. Other reporters are in the press room, and the sporadic sound of typewriters clacking arches over the wood screen at the entrance. Reporters stand watch all day.

All of the 290 employes of the West Wing are now present, except for the few who are scheduled to work late tonight. In the office across the street are 1,365 more White House workers.

Upstairs in the west bedroom, Helen Williams lays out Mrs. Johnson's first wardrobe for the day. Like her husband, the First Lady has little feeling for the feathers of adornment. In the early Congressional years she triumphed over Lyndon's desire to see her wear clinging silk dresses and spike-heeled shoes. She returned to the "sensible" cloths she preferred, and now she resents the necessity, as First Lady of the Land, to buy more and more gowns and dresses for more and more state occasions.

She has her hair shampooed and set twice a week. Until recently, Mrs. Johnson did it herself Once a week she will visit a beautician to have the hair ends trimmed, or to luxuriate in having someone else work her hair into a modified coiffure

'Come and Chat'

When Lady Bird strides into the sitting room her personal secretary, Ashton Gonella, is waiting. "Morning, Ashton." Then she turns to Mrs. Williams and says, "Go down the hall and ask the girls to come and chat with me."

It is going to be a family day Lynda and Luci are home, and the President said at breakfast that he expected this to be one of those rare days. Mrs. Johnson picks up the folder of mail and begins the task of responding to strangers. Between letters she turns to the phone to ask the operator to call an old friend, or the wife of a member of the Cabinet, and she goes over the White House grocery list item by item, as though she were paying the bills.

Bess Abell, Mrs. Johnson's appointments secretary, stops in for a moment to consult about a formal dinner which is three weeks away. Mrs. Johnson dreads affronting people; at times she is overly considerate. Often, as Bess Abell knows, when Lady Bird Johnson is unsure that she can accept an invitation, she will decline. However, the date of the event is always noted in a book, and when it arrives, if the First Lady is not committed elsewhere, she will phone the hostess and say, "This is Lady Bird Johnson May I still come over?"

Practice Speech

She doesn't like to make speeches, but if it must be done, Mrs Johnson will dictate one, and when it sounds right, she will stand alone in her room and deliver it aloud. She took a course in public speaking and knows the value of simple declarative sentences and sharp, clear diction.

In the President's bedroom, Air Force Sergeant Paul Glynn takes clothing from the valet stand and hands the pieces one by one to his chief. Johnson's frame is big and broad, a legacy of the teen-age days when he helped to build roads in Texas.

Ideas come to him even with one leg thrust into the trousers. He returns to the telephone again and again. He hangs up and the other leg goes into the trousers. The sergeant wonders if there will be another call before the shirt and tie are donned. It is possible. Johnson turns his mind to the nation's affairs when he awakens and turns it off when he snaps the night light out. There is no time — even when he is relaxing with his family — that he isn't eccentive to a fresh notion on how to resolve American problems.

Unscheduled Event

The knot is almost in his tie when he thinks of something and walks to Mrs Johnson's door and calls, "Bird!" She is dictating letters to Ashton Gonella but stops at once. "How about a boat ride tomorrow night?" the President says Mrs. Johnson is accustomed to unschedule events "Might be a good idea," she says, raising her voice, "if the weather stays warm." He straightens the tie "Well," he says, "think about it."

There is a small office sandwiched between aide Marvin Watson's and the President's Called the "Little Lounge," it has a couch, a chair, a table, and miniature television sets mounted high on the wall. Here, Dwight D Eisenhower composed himself for naps. So did Mr. Truman. It is so small, so well insulated on all sides from receptive ears, that President Johnson sometimes uses it for personal chats or secret conferences between appointments. The man who has just walked into it is Jack Valenti

Former Aide

For the first two years of the Johnson Administration, Valenti was as close to the President as Sherman Adams was to Eisenhower. If the President, in times of stress, worked all day and all night, Valenti was at his side, whispering, finding proper documents, making phone calls. When the time came for Valenti to leave and earn a far bigger salary as a "czar" of motion pictures, Mr Johnson permitted him to go, but only because it would penalize the Valentis economically to ask him to stay.

"The lesson I learned best," Valenti says, "is that he will not tolerate temporary solutions. We took turns offering a way out of many problems, but he rejected them on the ground that they'll be no good in the next generation. He told me that all the stakes are in tomorrow — not today."

Word 'No' Is Used

One of the news magazines implied that no one else except Bill D. Moyers (who also has returned to private business), has had the nerve to stand up to the President and refuse to go along with his notions. This is untrue. Almost all of the men in executive positions in the White House have said "No" more than once, and survived it.

Johnson would be a one-man Executive Branch of government if no one was permitted to disagree. All he asks is that the word "No" be supported by an argument with substantial statistics. The President is uneasy in the presence of the chronically agreeable. He taps the intelligence of all the men around him for their best thinking and then makes up his mind.

Complete Trust

Moyers replaced Valenti as the man who sat at the President's ear Mr. Johnson gave Movers the authority to attend National Security Council meetings, where top-secret defense moves are discussed, Congressional breakfast debates, and Cabinet meetings. The young man was an attentive listener, and sometimes could bring the President to a skidding stop by cutting in with "That wouldn't work because. . " And yet the President insists that no one can replace Valenti. "He's the man who knows me best I trust him completely." In fact, Valenti went on executing confidential missions for Johnson after he "left" the administration.

On the lower floor now as the clock approaches 10 a.m. the imposing face of Bob Kintner is screened by a speech. It is neither great nor important and will be read to schoolchildren late this afternoon, but the secretary to the President's Cabinet goes over it carefully. Kintner is the newest member of the inner circle

At one time he was president of the American Broadcasting Company: at another, he was head of the National Broadcasting Company Earlier this morning he marshaled all the information required for the Cabinet meeting. He will sit a foot behind and to the left of the President of the United States, whispering, suggesting, making notes, keeping the discussion to the agenda.

Deliberate Talker

Kintner is something of a West Wing anachronism because he thinks deliberately and talks deliberately. He sounds more like a Franklin D. Roosevelt man who has been locked in an office for 20 years. In a way, this is so. His first big political opportunity, as a young writer, was to be with Roosevelt on a campaign train. On the same train, a young Texas Congressman named Johnson followed the gleaming teeth, tilted chin, and polished spectacles with adulation. Kintner met Johnson Neither forgot it

Not Sure of Mandate

Voters Approved Buses for All, But Who, When, Where, How?

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The legislature is eager to comply with the mandate of the people as shown in an April referendum that private and parochial school children should have the right to ride in public school busses, but it is not entirely sure what that mandate is.

Did the people in approving an amendment to the state constitution mean that the legislature should authorize such service to such children within the operating public school district?

Or did they mean that such private and parochial school children should be given rides from their homes to the schools of their choice, even if that involves considerable travel outside the boundaries of the school district operating the busses?

The Wisconsin Assembly in a top-heavy vote Friday agreed that some service should be provided for non-public school students, for the first time in the history of the state. But the assemblymen left hanging the issue of the extent of the hauling the taxing districts should provide.

Limited to District First

As the transportation bill left the house with an approving vote of 87 to 8, it provided that:

1. For the school year starting in the fall, public school districts providing school busses will be required to provide service for parochial school students, but will be prohibited from extending their bus routes outside their own districts.

2. For the following school year, they would be required to provide such in-district service, as well as transportation up to 5 miles beyond the district boundaries, at the request of families of private or parochial school children enrolled at more distant non-public schools.

3. In the interval between the two school terms, the legislature will commission a special study group to determine the administrative problems, costs, and other complications involved in the issue.

5-Mile Limit

The five mile limitation was a defeat for the private and parochial school interests that have compaigned for the change in the constitution and the law for more than a quarter of a century.

"This is not honest or fair," protested Assemblyman Adrian Manders of Milwaukee, floor-leader of the forces that had demanded transportation service up to 10 miles beyond the legal boundaries of the district operating the school busses.

But the 5 mile limitation, starting in the 1968-69 school year, had evidently won a majority support in the cacuses of the Republican and Democratic blocs in the house.

The question of electoral intent was never reviewed during the campaign that accompanied the constitutional amendment ratification. But some critics of the idea of providing buses outside the jurisdictions of the sponsoring school districts recalled that a 1961 statute authorizing such transportation of non-public school pupils expressly limited service to routes within a school district. That law was struck down as unconstitutional by the state supreme court, and led to the drive for a constitutional amendment.

Revision Opportunity

The assembly's action means that there will be an opportunity for further revision of the law — assuming the senate concurs in the poropsal — before the start of the 1968-69 school year. There is likely to be a session of the legislature next spring. The study committee was directed to report not later than Jan. 1.

The Wisconsin Association of School Boards told legislators that it has not taken a position on the question of the extent of geographical coverage of the school bus routes, but said it is extremely concerned that an administratively feasible system is adopted. School administrators are known to be worried about excessively long bus hauls, inefficient trips with few passengers, and higher costs resulting from extra-territorial service. Recognizing such concerns, the assembly bill would increase the maximum aids paid by the state per student, in a range from $24 a year to $48.

Dictates Letter

In her sitting room, Mrs. Johnson works alone with a tape recorder. She has sent Ashton Gonella off to find a carbon of a letter, and now the words pour into the silent spinner. When the First Lady desires to send a letter but not dictate the whole thing, she says, "I'm speaking to you" — meaning Ashton — and gives the sense of what she wants said.

The machine is switched off, and Mrs. Johnson says to no one in particular, "Now where are those girls?"

Cottage Owners Given Until Nov. 1 to Leave Devils Lake State Park

MADISON (AP) — Cottage owners at Devils Lake State Park near Baraboo have been given a final court order to evacuate the area by Nov. 1

Circuit Judge Robert Gollmar issued a brief statement Thursday telling the occupants there would be no extension of the deadline originally set by his court.

The state has been trying to reclaim 86 cottages on the northeast side of the lake it had leased to the residents. The State Supreme Court has ruled the Conservation Commission can legally eject the cottage owners.

The state is planning to open the area for public use.

World Leader's Opinions

Capuchins to Stay Humble

BY MAIJA PENIKIS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Vatican II Council documents, which have touched, in some form or another many Roman Catholic orders, may even affect the humble order of the Capuchins, though in what form it is not yet certain.

This was the thought expressed by the Most Rev. Clementinus (Schutiser) of Vlissingen (Holland), world leader of "the little brown brothers" who, for 400 years have followed the three simple ideals of poverty, chastity and obedience as expressed by St. Francis of Assisi.

Father Schutiser was in Appleton this week for the election of a new provincial and four definitors for the St. Joseph Province.

Reforms Uncertain

In an interview, the minister general said no one is certain of the type of reforms which will be necessary for the order but added that "the same spirit of poverty, beatitudes and apostolic service will be highlighted."

People sometimes ask us how we harmonize the various forms of modern life with the Franciscan spirit of poverty, the priest said. "We have only to look beyond our own civilization, look to the many poor areas within our rich cities. There are still many possibilities of sharing the existence of the most humble person," Father Schutiser said.

"And even in a gilded world, how many are poor in health or in joy? To continue to be with the least of our brothers as one of them is as possible now as it was in the time of Christ," the humble monastic who leads the 15,800 Capuchins in the world, said.

The leader said the biggest percentage of those entering the Capuchin Order come from Capuchin seminaries.

"The actual problem is to find a way of developing the vocations of those who are called later in life," he said.

Level Off

He also stated there has been a leveling-off in the enrollment in the past few years, just as in the whole field of ministry.

"Generally, though, North America is flourishing and India is becoming one of the biggest provinces of the Order," he added.

Asked about some of the points in the cultural tradition of the Order, Father Schutiser said the order is not specifically involved in the cultural except when it aids them in pastoral work.

"Our ministry is concerned with ordinary people, as testified by our missions," he answered.

The priets also touched on the question of whether a confederation of all Franciscan families is foreseeable in the future.

"Here we have a problem of definition," he said. "Just what is Franciscanism? Would a one-way interpretation really be an enrichment to the church, is the question. Or would it be a drag on the dynamism which the institutions should have in our modern society?" he asked.

Maintain Branches

Multiplicity, he added, is not harmful when it expresses the vitality of a millenial tree which is still in the process of maintaining its many branches that are vigorous.

"We (the Friar Minor Capuchins) known as 'the little brothers' are characterized by Gospel-type poverty. Apostolically, the word "minor" expresses a form of service to others which keeps the friar minor in a human condition equal to those he serves," Father Schutiser explained.

With a twinkle he also added that the concept of "minor" is not resolved simply in humility, as people often believe.

"Humility is a personal fact," said the little brother who though a world leader, differs from his other "little brothers" only by a beard's length.

Jingo Continues His Discussion on Theater

'The Devils' Production at Hull House Interesting; 'Fiddler on Roof' Charming

BY JINGO

In a column last week, Jingo wore one of his infrequent grins as a result of having seen a most imaginative and challenging production of "Finnigans Wake" at Northwestern University.

Jingo

Today, he reports on two other experiences in playgoing John Whiting's "The Devils", as presented by the Hull House Theater, 3212 N. Broadway, Chicago, and "Fiddler on the Roof", a Harold Prince production, playing at the McVickers Theater, Chicago.

Loosely based on an Aldous Huxley novel, "The Devils of Loudun," and initially produced in Great Britain in 1961, "The Devils" is being given its Midwest premiere at Hull House.

Director Bob Sickinger has staged this drama of almost unrelieved sensuality and brutality in a three-sided arena theater. Thanks to James Maronek's highly ingenious two-level, skeletonized act, and selective lighting, the necessary transitions between scenes are accomplished with almost cinematic rapidity.

Despite the skill of the director and designer, however, "The Devils" emerges as murky, uneven theater, albeit with scenes of considerable eloquence and power.

Introduction Needed

As an introductory note on the program makes it clear, the drama is essentially the story of Urbain Grandier, a "libertine priest who lives and dies through his senses. He reaches God through Man, and sensual excess. Eventually, as his unorthodox pursuit of God incurs the enmity of others, Grandier realizes that he will finally, only reach God through self-destruction, and he deliberately pursues the path leading to it."

And Keith Nelison, in an accompanying critique of the play, declares that Grandier's struggle and ultimate death demonstrate that "perhaps the only 'tragic hero' our age can produce is the man who, seeking meaning with the only weapon left, himself, contrives his own destruction as the required offering ... Only by carefully tracing Grandier's mechanisms — conscious and otherwise — for self-destruction can the complex structural and thematic unity of the play make sense."

So it is, according to Nelison, that Grandier's compulsive womanizing; his defiance of the King and Richelieu; his vilification by a sexually frustrated nun, whom he has never met, and his "religious mashochism", which leads to a quest for God through the pleasures of the flesh, are brought into thematic unity in the third act, in which the sybaritic priest is tortured and executed.

Lacking in Drama

The trouble with "The Devils", it seems to Jingo, is that its intellectual intentions are not fully realized in dramatic terms. It is never successfully demonstrated to us, in the action of the play, that Grandier is not only a dissolute cleric but a brilliantly unorthodox preacher who must be silenced; the scenes of torture not only struck this reviewer as unnecessarily brutal (especially in the arena), but tended to overshadow the passages of intellectual argument; and the thematic high point of the play (confrontation of the priest by the nun who has falsely accused him) comes long after the dramatic high point has been reached and passed.

In fact, the entire third act, which is intended to knit the play together thematically, is unnecessary from the standpoint purely of dramatic structure. At the end of the second act, Grandier is led off to be executed; there the story, to all intents and purposes, ends. Yet the audience is subjected to another entire act, in which the leading character is tortured (on stage) and executed.

If Jingo seems unnecessarily harsh in his appraisal of "The Devils," it is not because the script lacks literary and philosophic merit, but because its author (who also wrote screenplays for British films) is operating on a level that invites — indeed, demands serious analysis.

Fine Technical Theater

As presented by a skilled cast of semi-professionals at Hull House, "The Devils" is consistently interesting, from a technical and thespic viewpoint, and represents a commendably high level of craftsmanship for community theater.

As Father Grandier, John Whitaker has the requisite physical attractiveness to make his successful pursuit of all manner of women believable (Jingo doubts that Jason Robards Jr., in the New York production, had similar magnetism), and his destruction by fire in the final act is thus doubly harrowing.

Diane Rudall is effectively hysterical, as the writing, praying, repentent Sister Jeanne, whose accusations lead to Grandier's downfall, and there is excellent support from a large supporting cast. (Since "The Devils" has alternate casts, and players appearing at specific performances are not noted, it is difficult to give proper credit to all contributors.)

Final Performance Noted

Despite Jingo's qualms about the dramatic structure of "The Devils," it is an intriguing demonstration of what a big-city community theater, drawing upon the talents and audience of a metropolitan area, can be and do. The final performance of "The Devils" at Hull House Theater will be given Sunday, July 23.

* * *

And finally — and, of necessity, briefly — Jingo must mention the Chicago company of Bock and Harnick's "Fiddler on the Roof", featuring Luther Adler.

Rich Material

In fashioning this big-scale "folk musical" for the Broadway stage, author Joseph Stein and producer Harold Prince have drawn upon the rich lode of warm and wonderful material to be found in Sholom Aleichem's stories of Jewish life in the Old Country.

Actually, considering the quality of the Aleichem tales, and the author's prolific output, it is unlikely that "Fiddler on the Roof" will be the last successful musical to be taken from this source. Nor should it be.

The story, as just about everybody must know by now, centers around Tevye, the God-fearing (but God-addressing) Dairyman; his practical-minded wife, and his five daughters, who live in an impoverished village in pre-Revolutionary Russia.

Problems Believable

The crises of the slight book — one daughter marries an impoverished tailor rather than the wealthy butcher who would have her, and another daughter marries out of the faith — are familiar and believable, and the score is beautifully integrated into the script.

Familiar to most playgoers by now are such hits as "Matchmaker, Matchmaker", "Miracle of Miracles" and "Sunrise, Sunset."

Since Jerome Robbins has directed and choreographed the entire production, one might expect that it would move — and move it does. Boris Aaronson's sets nicely accomplish the difficult task of conveying the impression of poverty, while at the same time being picturesque enough to carry across the footlights.

Timely Impact

The climax, in which the entire village is displaced, and the Promised Land appears very far away indeed, has additional impact because of recent developments in the Middle East.

Veteran actor Luther Adler is a better than adequate Tevye (though Jingo wishes, somewhat wistfully, that he could have seen Zero Mostel in the first few months of the show's run), and the supporting cast is generally excellent.

Since the show is a virtual sellout, Jingo advises prospective playgoers to send for their tickets now if they hope to see it before the Chicago run concludes.

Once Again The Monkees Are Spoofing

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7 (Channel 5) — The Monkees continue their spoofing romps with some not-so-sly digs at the sleuthing game in "The Spy Who Came in From the Cool." Before the boys can yell "U.N.C.L.E." they are deeply involved with an espionage ring (C-R)

* * *

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — Iron Horse once more has its hero (Dale Robertson) at the gaming tables. This time he is busy with baccarat. The stakes are his life, $3,000 and the freedom of Sharon Farrell, who is being held by a half-breed English aristocrat (Bert Freed) The acting makes this episode appear more reasonable than it is (C-R)

* * *

7:30-8 (Channels 2-7-12) — The Lucy Show shines a little brighter with Phil Silvers the guest. As an efficiency expert, he almost gives Gale Gordon (Mr. Mooney) a heart attack when he picks Lucille Ball as the bank's top employe. (C-R)

* * *

7:30-8 (Channels 11-6-9) — The Rat Patrol keeps rolling along with heroic tricks and dashing bang-bang games. Sgt. Troy (Chris George) and Pvt Hitchcock (Larry Casey) get themselves captured by the "Jerries" so they can infiltrate a POW compound and get some valuable information. (C-R)

9-10 (Channels 4-5) — Run For Your Life has a sullen but sometimes effective episode with "The Face of the Antagonist." Once again there's that old story of an ex-policeman with a bad reputation of being overly tough Aldo Ray plays this part and he gives a strong performance. (C-R)

9-10 (Channels 11-6-9) — The Big Valley's big boys, Peter Breck and Lee Majors, are chained to a chain gang after they are accused of stealing cattle. There is no question of their innocence. A rancher is framing the lads and is trying to get free labor. It's a fuzzy, somewhat sadistic episode and just another excuse to prompt the anger of the battling Barkleys. (C-R)

Easy Methods Listed For Swallowing Pills

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Our discussion on people who have difficulty swallowing pills (this is a nervous manifestation, but no less real to the sufferer) brought from readers several tricks that have worked.

Here are some typical ones:

My husband was one who could not take a pill. Somewhere I read that it was easy if taken with a spoonful of applesauce.

He tried it, and even though he took five pills three times a day for years (he lived to be nearly 87) he never had any trouble taking pills with applesauce. Even in the hospital he took his pills with applesauce I kept some in the refrigerator on his floor. — E.G.B.

I have found the following method helpful. Chew a piece of toast or bread until you have a mouthful of mash or pulp. Stick the capsule or pill in it and you can swallow it without even realizing it is there. — E.S.H.

First fill the mouth with water but do not swallow. Ease the pill through the lips. Drink more water and swallow fast. Sometimes you can take in "sandwich" form what you cannot abide by itself. — I.E.A.

Dear Dr. Molner: I read about a tablet that you dissolve in your mouth when you get the desire to smoke. It is said to reduce the habit gradually. It is guaranteed to help or your money is refunded. Do you believe in this plan? —Mrs. P.T.

It might help: I wouldn't expect it or any such system to do the whole job. This is borne out by experts at smoking clinics who stress above all the value of motivation — really wanting to give up smoking

That's the answer to why some people can just stop, without any pills, crutches or gimmicks But for many of us, a variety of tricks seem to help. You probably would be interested in my booklet, "Tips on How to Stop Smoking," which outlines some methods which have aided other folks. You can get a copy by sending 10 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner, care of The Post-Crescent.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had to have a Caesarian section. Now my doctor says that if I have other babies, they will have to be delivered by Caesarian, too. I have read articles saying that after a Caesarian it is still possible to have a baby normally Does each doctor feel different about it, or is there one correct answer? — J D.

Your question isn't as simple as you think. The mere fact that a woman has had a Caesarian doesn't necessarily mean that she must always have them Normal deliveries have occurred subsequent to a C-section.

However — and this is the important point — you must take into consideration the REASON for the first one. If the same condition is still present, such as a pelvis which is not adequate for normal delivery, then the necessity of another C-section remains.

Note to Mrs E M Since you've been checked and your husband has not, your failure to become pregnant may indicate that something is wrong with him His refusal to be checked medically is characteristic of a lot of men — but the fact remains that in a considerable share of cases, about one-third, the trouble is with the man.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble" It may be only minor, but it can be dangerous. Read Dr Molner's booklet "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need To Know About Them" Write to Dr Molner in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling

Christ Child Campers Revel in Sun, Water, Sand

The first season at Pine Lake Lutheran Camp was a success for the Christ Child Society, which annually sponsors a week of camping for retarded children in the area.

Children who might otherwise miss the opportunity to enjoy such an experience in the outdoors swam, learned crafts and sunbathed on the sandy beaches for six days.

Cooling Off

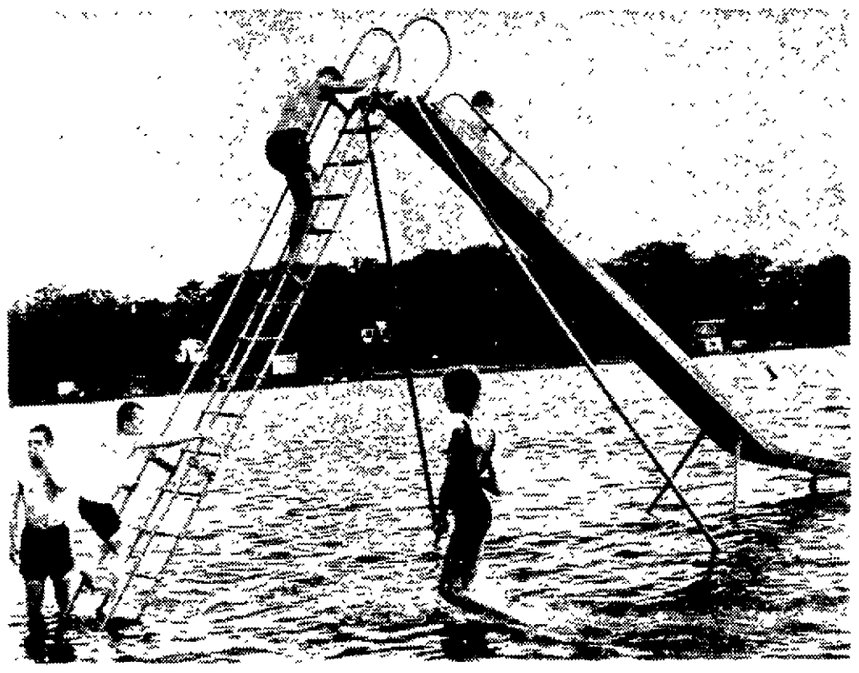
With temperatures in the 80's last week, the 39 campers took advantage of the cool lake waters. Many climbed the steps of the long slide off shore and plunged into the shallow water. Others were content to play in the sand or listen to a counselor strum a guitar. Rest periods were scheduled each day so the children didn't become overtired.

The camp, located west of Waupaca, is operated co-educationally all summer long. During June 11 to 16 the facilities were made available to the Christ Child Society for retarded children of all denominations.

Name Directors

The Rev. Howard Knox, new director of Pine Lake Lutheran Camp, served as an advisor during the week. Patrick Pflieger, Brookfield, a teacher of the retarded, returned for his third year at the camp. Other staff members included Mrs. Donald Stegeman, a teacher at Plamann school. Four college students served as advisors. The rest of the staff, numbering approximately 25, was comprised of high school students who have worked at Morgan School or who have had previous experience working with retarded children.

Counselors and Campers spent afternoon rest periods getting acquainted or chatting. Above, Kevin Bowers, 9, and counselor Pete McCanna, listen with Tom Driscoll, 10, as Mark Jankowski plays his guitar. Below, campers look at items made during arts and crafts sessions. Appraising the selection are Cathy Nowak, Wausaukee; Sharon Bonzalet, Kimberly, Mary Kay Samsa, a counselor from Appleton; Mary Lou Fuerst, and Ann Vander Zanden, Kimberly.



With Temperatures in the 80s last week, Christ Child campers at Pine Lake Lutheran Camp cooled off in the shallow waters near the beach. Above, nine - year - old Chris Deltour sorts pebbles she has collected. At right, the more adventurous use the slide located off shore. Paul Hill, Neenah, below, enjoys sunning himself on the beach.
